Powers Seeking Counter-Measures: Germany's Attitude

General Hugh Johnson makes a public appeal for support for his Recovery Campaign.

FREEING BANK DEPOSITS

A LIQUIDATION BOARD

MORE CONCEALED INFLATION?

Washington, Oct. 15.

Another colossal effort is being made by President Roosevelt with a view to the re-opening of banks and releasing frozen assets.

The President has announced the immediate creation of a Deposit Liquidation Board.

The duties of the Board will be to assist the depositors of the closed banks by lending them about a thousand million dollars. It will also be entrusted with the task of ensuring a more orderly liquidation of the frozen assets of the closed banks.

R.F.C. ACTION.

In addition, a special division within the Finance Reconstruction Corporation will disburse funds in proportion to the assets of the banks which have closed down since January 1 up to a maximum of fifty per cent. of their deposits, including any distribution of funds which may have already been made.—Reuter.

MIDNIGHT CAR MISHAP

POLICE SEEKING DRIVER

EUROPEAN SAID TO BE CONCERNED

Kowloon police are searching for the European driver of a car which crashed into a pedestrian island on Nathan Road at about half an hour after midnight.

The incident occurred almost opposite the Mongkok Police Station and the car was overturned as the result of the collision. The occupant escaped with very slight injuries it is believed.

A Fire Brigade appliance was brought into service to enable the car to be righted, whereupon the driver got inside and drove away. It was understood from him that he was merely testing the vehicle.

The police are now anxious to get into touch with him. It is stated that they have the number of the car.

A pair of scissors was wielded with disastrous results in a fight between two Chinese yesterday at Johnston Road, Wanchai. Ng Pui, 16-year-old youth, received a wound in the arm, leading to his admission to hospital.

FRENCH CABINET ENDANGERED

GENEVA CONFERENCE TO ADJOURN

THE FIRST SHOCK OF GERMANY'S ABANDONMENT OF THE LEAGUE AND DISARMAMENT BEING OVER, MINDS ARE NOW CONCENTRATED UPON THE IMPLICATIONS OF THE ACTION AND MEANS OF PREVENTING THE FURTHER DESTRUCTION OF CONFIDENCE.

An adjournment of the Disarmament Conference to-day is practically assured, probably meaning an end to practical efforts towards disarmament for some considerable time to come.

The small Powers, however, seem to be in favour of the conclusion of a Convention without Germany based upon the proposals made in Sir John Simon's speech yesterday. The great Powers see no value in pursuing the matter at the present critical juncture.

IMPORTANT TALKS IN GENEVA

London, Oct. 16.
Europe is still in a flutter over Germany's withdrawal from the League and from the Disarmament Conference. Little else was talked about to-day and there was considerable activity in diplomatic circles in nearly every capital.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald returned to London this evening and had a long conversation with Mr. Stanley Baldwin. Later he telephoned to Sir John Simon at Geneva.

There have, however, been no further developments from the British angle.

DALADIER ENDANGERED.

In Paris, the conviction is growing that Germany's action has precipitated the possibility of the fall of the Daladier Government—an event which would render even more remote the likelihood of concessions to Germany.

M. Daladier's enemies are already very strong and they are attacking him vigorously by alleging the failure of the Government's conciliatory foreign policy, and draw attention to the fact that a further arms cut was agreed upon in the teeth of strong home opposition.

GERMANY CALM.

The people of Germany are facing the situation very calmly and there was no demonstration of any kind yesterday.

The idea that Germany is being treated unfairly as a second-class nation has so long been inculcated in the average German by press and radio propaganda and he is convinced that "strong man" Hitler will reconstitute Germany as a powerful nation. Hence the calm attitude.

The Chancellor has already been inundated with thousands of telegrams promising support to the death.

The subject of re-armament is not being mentioned anywhere.

HITLER WAITING.

It seems likely that the German Government has no intention whatever of violating existing treaties, but is awaiting the effect of its measures on the world generally and on France in particular before deciding upon its further course of action.

As the outcome of a meeting at Geneva of the great Powers, Mr. Arthur Henderson will to-day recommend the adjournment of the General Commission of the Disarmament Conference.

WEEK'S ADJOURNMENT.

It is likely that the adjournment will be for a brief period only, not longer than a week, and will be ostensibly for the purpose of enabling the Governments to review the situation created by Germany's retirement.

It is pointed out, however, that as most of the principal delegates will by then have already left Geneva, most of them having decided to return after to-day's meeting, it is doubtful whether the proceedings will be seriously resumed then.

A COMPROMISE.

Yesterday's meeting's decision to recommend an adjournment is in the nature of a compromise, as it is realised that a recommendation to adjourn sine die might provoke strong opposition.

Italy openly advocates an adjournment, and the Americans are also inclined to favour it, but Dr. Benes, representing the small Powers, strongly opposed.

To-day's meeting also drafted a letter in reply to the charges of Baron von Neurath, which is being submitted to to-morrow's meeting of the Commission. It is understood that the communication firmly rejects the von Neurath charges.—Reuter.

AMERICAN FEARS.

Washington, Oct. 16.
Government officials to-day expressed their agreement with the decision to recommend the recess of the General Commission of the Disarmament Conference, but stand firmly against final adjournment.

The State Department declared that Mr. Norman Davis had authority to support such a recommendation without consulting Washington.

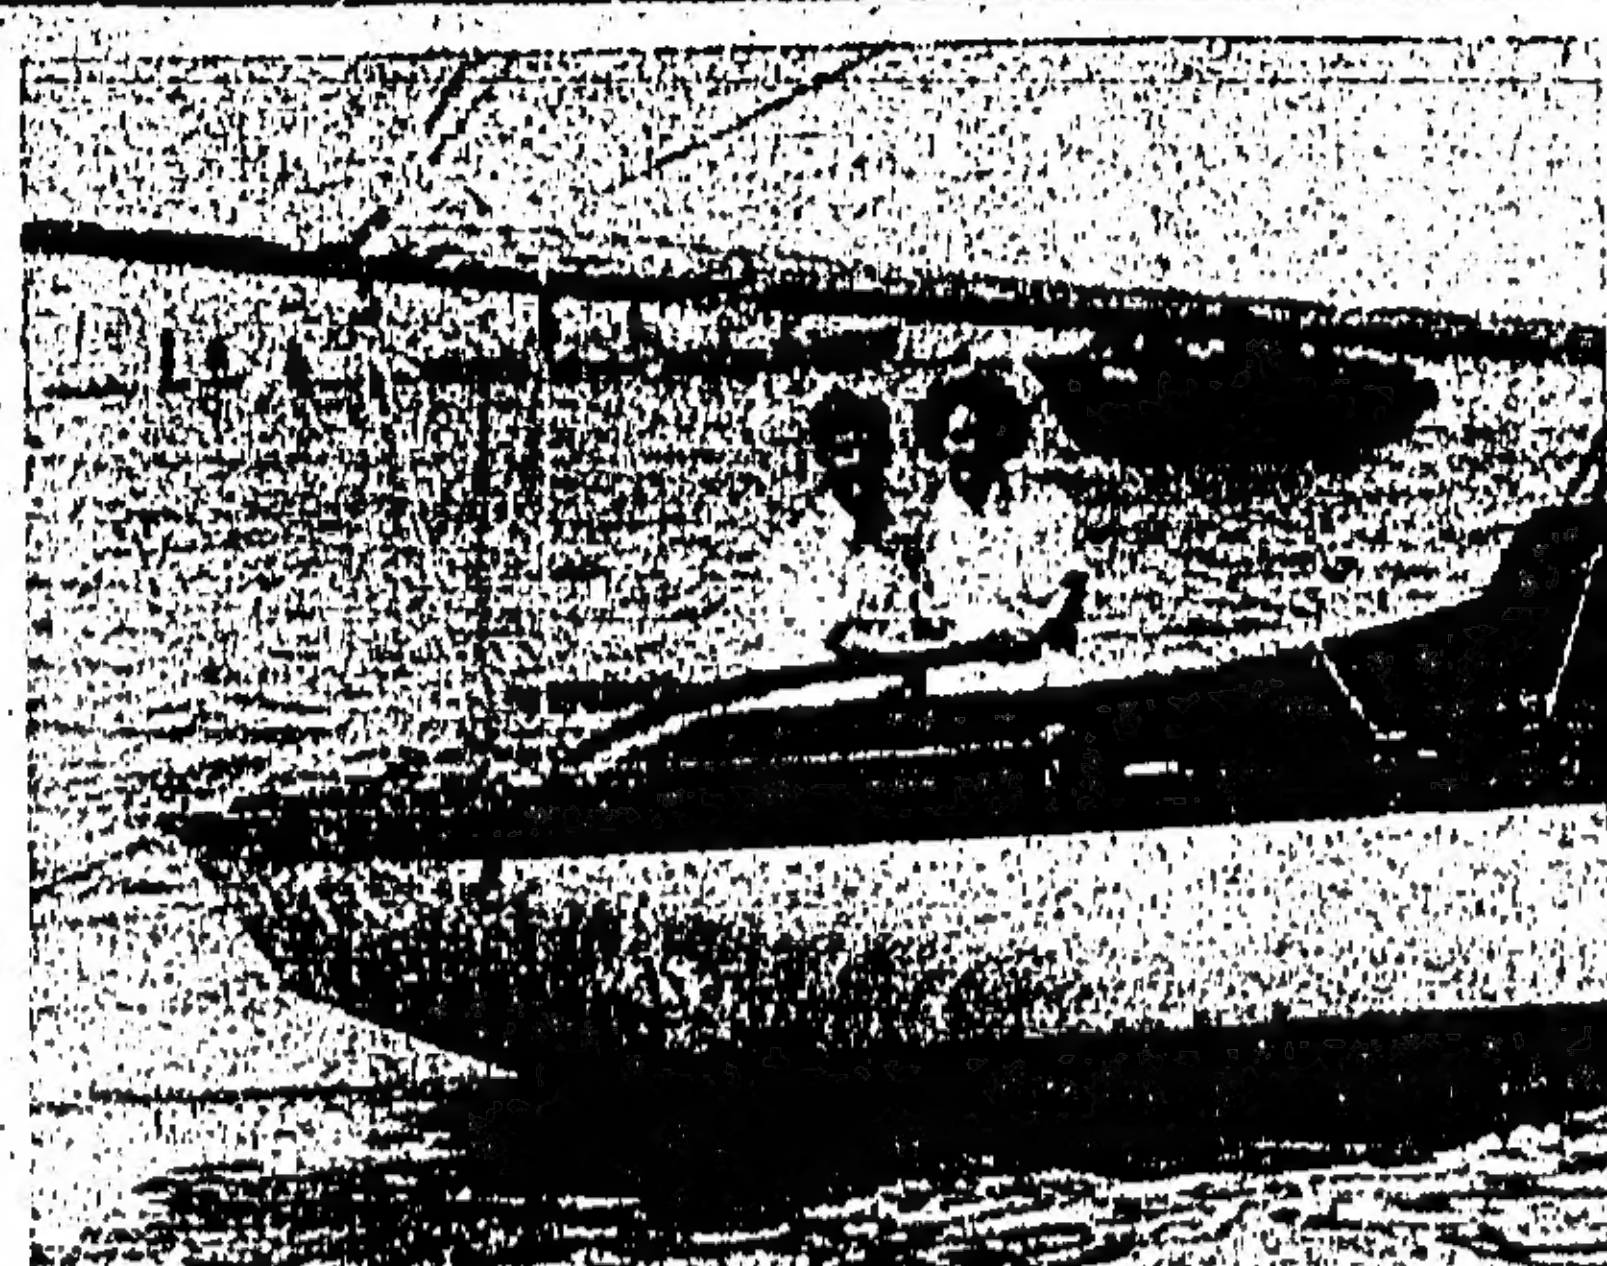

Official circles are of the opinion that Germany cannot be brought back into the Arms Conference, at least not for a long time, and it is felt that the Conference should be saved from a break down, which might mean the start of a great international armaments race.—Reuter.

OPENING BREACH.

Berlin, Oct. 14.
The German Reichstag has been dissolved by a special order from President von Hindenburg. The new elections which are fixed for November 11, will give German electors an opportunity of expressing their views on the internal and external policy of the nation.

Chancellor Adolf Hitler, in his manifesto to the German people, declared that Germany is most disappointed that despite all readiness to carry out her Disarmament, if necessary to the utmost, other Governments could not decide to fulfil the pledges signed by them in the Peace Treaty.

The German people and the Government are most humiliated by the deliberate refusal of real moral and actual equality for Germany after the Government of the Reich had declared itself, as a result of the equality promised on November 11, 1918.—Continued on Page 6

MUNICH "OMEN" DRAMA

NAZI SYMBOL SHATTERS

SHOCK FOR HERR HITLER

SILVER HAMMER INCIDENT

QUEER AFFAIR

Munich, Oct. 15.

An incident full of bad omen for the superstitious occurred at Munich this afternoon at the laying of the foundation stone of a new art gallery by Herr Hitler.

A beautiful silver hammer, which the Nazi leader was using for the first time for ceremonial purposes, shattered in his hand.

A profound shock was caused throughout the distinguished company, which included the Papal Nuncio, Prince August Wilhelm, Dr. Goebbels, the Minister of Propaganda, and Baron von Neurath, as well as nearly all the German State Governors and the foreign consular officials in Munich.

COMPANY SHOCKED.

Everyone was thunderstruck. The Bavarian Minister of the Interior handed the Chancellor the silver hammer, conferring it upon Herr Hitler "as a symbol of the future of the Nazi movement."

He expressed the hope that the Chancellor would use it on all similar occasions.

Herr Hitler applied it to the foundation stone.

The hammer broke in half at the first tap.

The whole company gasped.

SPEECH GOES UNDELIVERED.

Hitler was most affected. He sat down heavily in his chair and did not deliver the speech he had prepared.

In an earlier speech, he dissipated fears that the Government of the Reich intended to attempt to break down the customs and characters of the various German States as a result of the policy of unifying the Reich. He declared that these customs would be held sacrosanct.—Reuter.

SPY SCARE IN SAAR AREA

FRENCH PLANS IN GERMAN HANDS

MAN ARRESTED

Geneva, Oct. 10.

With the French frontier in the throes of a spy scare following the report that Germany had obtained the detailed plans of French secret fortifications, delegates to the League of Nations were nervous to-day lest recent incidents in the Saar basin should produce a crisis.

Despatches reported that the French had already arrested a foreman engaged on the secret fortifications on a charge of delivering the plans and specifications to German agents. This was followed by a Paris message saying that an engineer named Weber had been detained at Metz on suspicion that he was the go-between in the dealings between the foreman, Emile Schopp, and German agents.

MACHINE-GUNS.

Two civilians were later arrested at Saarbrücken, charged with conveying a motor lorry loaded with the latest type French machine-guns. Schopp was said to have confessed that he stole the machine-guns from the French supply stores.

The foreman, Schopp, according to reports here, was considered to be entirely loyal to France and had been trusted with all secrets pertaining to the construction of the fortifications. He had been employed on one piece of construction for eight months.

Other arrests are expected hourly, it was reported here, and it was feared that the French threat, made recently, that Germany would be arraigned before the League on charges of open violation of Versailles treaty would be put into effect.

NEST OF ESPIONAGE.

As the despatches were received to-day, the League already had before it a report from the League's governing commission in the Saar valley covering disturbing incidents that have taken place there throughout the summer and the early autumn.

Most of the delegates had hoped that a resolution, instructing the League Council to watch Saar development closely in order to safeguard European peace, would be sufficient. Now that a new irritant has been applied to the general political situation, delegates were not certain what would take place.

The report from the Saar with the statement of a French official that the Saar basin had become

ARMOURD CAR MISHAP

RUNS OFF ROAD WHILE FIRING

EUROPEAN CREW ESCAPE

Three European members of the Armoured Car Company, H.K.V.D.C. had a narrow escape yesterday when involved in an accident during firing practice in the New Territories.

The armoured section consists of three cars which at about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, were carrying out combined operations on the Fanling-Shataukok Road, New Territories.

Two practices by the cars proceeding along in line and firing one after the other at a target, a copse across the paddies, had been carried out. The accident occurred during the third practice.

No. 1 Car, bringing up the rear, was travelling at about 30 miles an hour, firing at the target, when it left the road, and fell into a wet paddy field on the left side of the road. The car, weighing five-and-a-half tons, rolled heavily over on its side, and came to a rest in soft mud.

The turret dropped off, and the three crew, including the driver, Pte. N. Mathieson, who were trapped within, were able to crawl out through the hole.

Although the car had dropped about four feet, none of the crew were injured beyond a shaking.

The crew of the car comprised Pte. N. Mathieson (driver) and Ptes. J. H. Bradford and E. K. L. Wright was in charge of the Armoured Car Section. At the time of the mishap he was watching the firing practice from a spot 200 yards away.

The car was deeply imbedded in the soft earth. It was being salvaged this morning.

FRANCOIS COTY.

DISMISSED AS DIRECTOR

Paris, Oct. 7.

The action taken by the management of the newspaper Le Figaro in dismissing the newspaper's principal stockholder and head of the well known perfume concern, M. Francois Coty, from his post of director, is causing a sensation in newspaper circles here.

It appears that the action was taken at the insistence of Figaro's editor-in-chief, Count St. Aulaire.

In a counterblast published in Friday's issue of the newspaper Ami du Peuple, which is also owned by M. Coty, Count St. Aulaire is charged with having played a questionable role in the Quistric scandal.

Ordre claims that Figaro's financial status is far from being satisfactory.

H.M.S. Suffolk left Hongkong this morning for exercises and will return on Thursday; and the U.S. Gunboat Mindanao left for Canton. The French sloop Savorgnan de Brazza is expected to arrive on October 24 and will leave on November 2.

A nest of espionage and intrigue, came while a League committee had in its possession the report of the governing commission charging German Nazis in the area with religious persecution, intimidation of Saar officials and abusive attacks on the governing body.

The governing commission was appointed by the League for a period of fifteen years, its functions to cease in 1935, following a plebiscite to determine whether the people of the basin desire to be under French or German rule.

As the time for the plebiscite draws nearer, the French and Germans are both increasing their efforts to swing the opinion of the 700,000 inhabitants that are under the nominal government of the League in their own favour.

BYE-ELECTIONS IN ENGLAND

Government's Strength to be Tested.

A miniature general election is now pending and is likely to indicate the strength or otherwise of the support for the present National Government throughout the country.

The death last week of Mr. N. W. Smith-Carrington, Conservative member for the Rutland and Stamford Division, brings the number of bye-elections to six, the other five being Kilmarnock (where a four-cornered contest is likely between Socialist, Independent Labour Party, Scottish Party and Scottish National Party candidates), Market Harborough, East Fulham, Skipton and Rusholme.—Reuter.

The last four of these returned Conservatives by overwhelming majorities at the last election. The Labour Party will oppose the Government candidates in all these divisions and Liberal candidates also are likely at Market Harborough, Skipton and Rusholme.—Reuter.

YOUR CHILDREN

Avoid "Priming" A Child for School

By Olive Roberts Barton

"I'm glad Peggy is starting school," said her mother. "She's getting beyond me."
 "They soon straighten them out," agreed her friend. "I hope that you will like school, Peggy."
 Peggy said, "Yes'm" was corrected and tried to give a better answer.
 But her thoughts were not on manners. She was thinking about that "straightening out." What could it mean? What did they do to you there?

Classroom Fear.

She didn't want to be straightened out. She didn't want to go to school at all. She called school square. Everything square. Square books, square blackboards, square desks, square everything. Lines and rows and squares. She had visited school, with Lois and when she came home she felt that she never wanted to go to that place again.

"So you're going to school this Autumn, Peggy!"
 Everywhere she turned someone said that to her.
 And her mother would answer for her. "Yes, and I'm so glad. She is running wild and needs to be doing something. You know they make them walk the chalk line and the children turn into different people."

Lois added her bit. "When you go to school you can't do that. If you don't behave you'll catch it. You mustn't whisper. If you're dumb they'll put you in a back seat."

Already she was planning ways to defeat this great machine that was to catch and crush her.

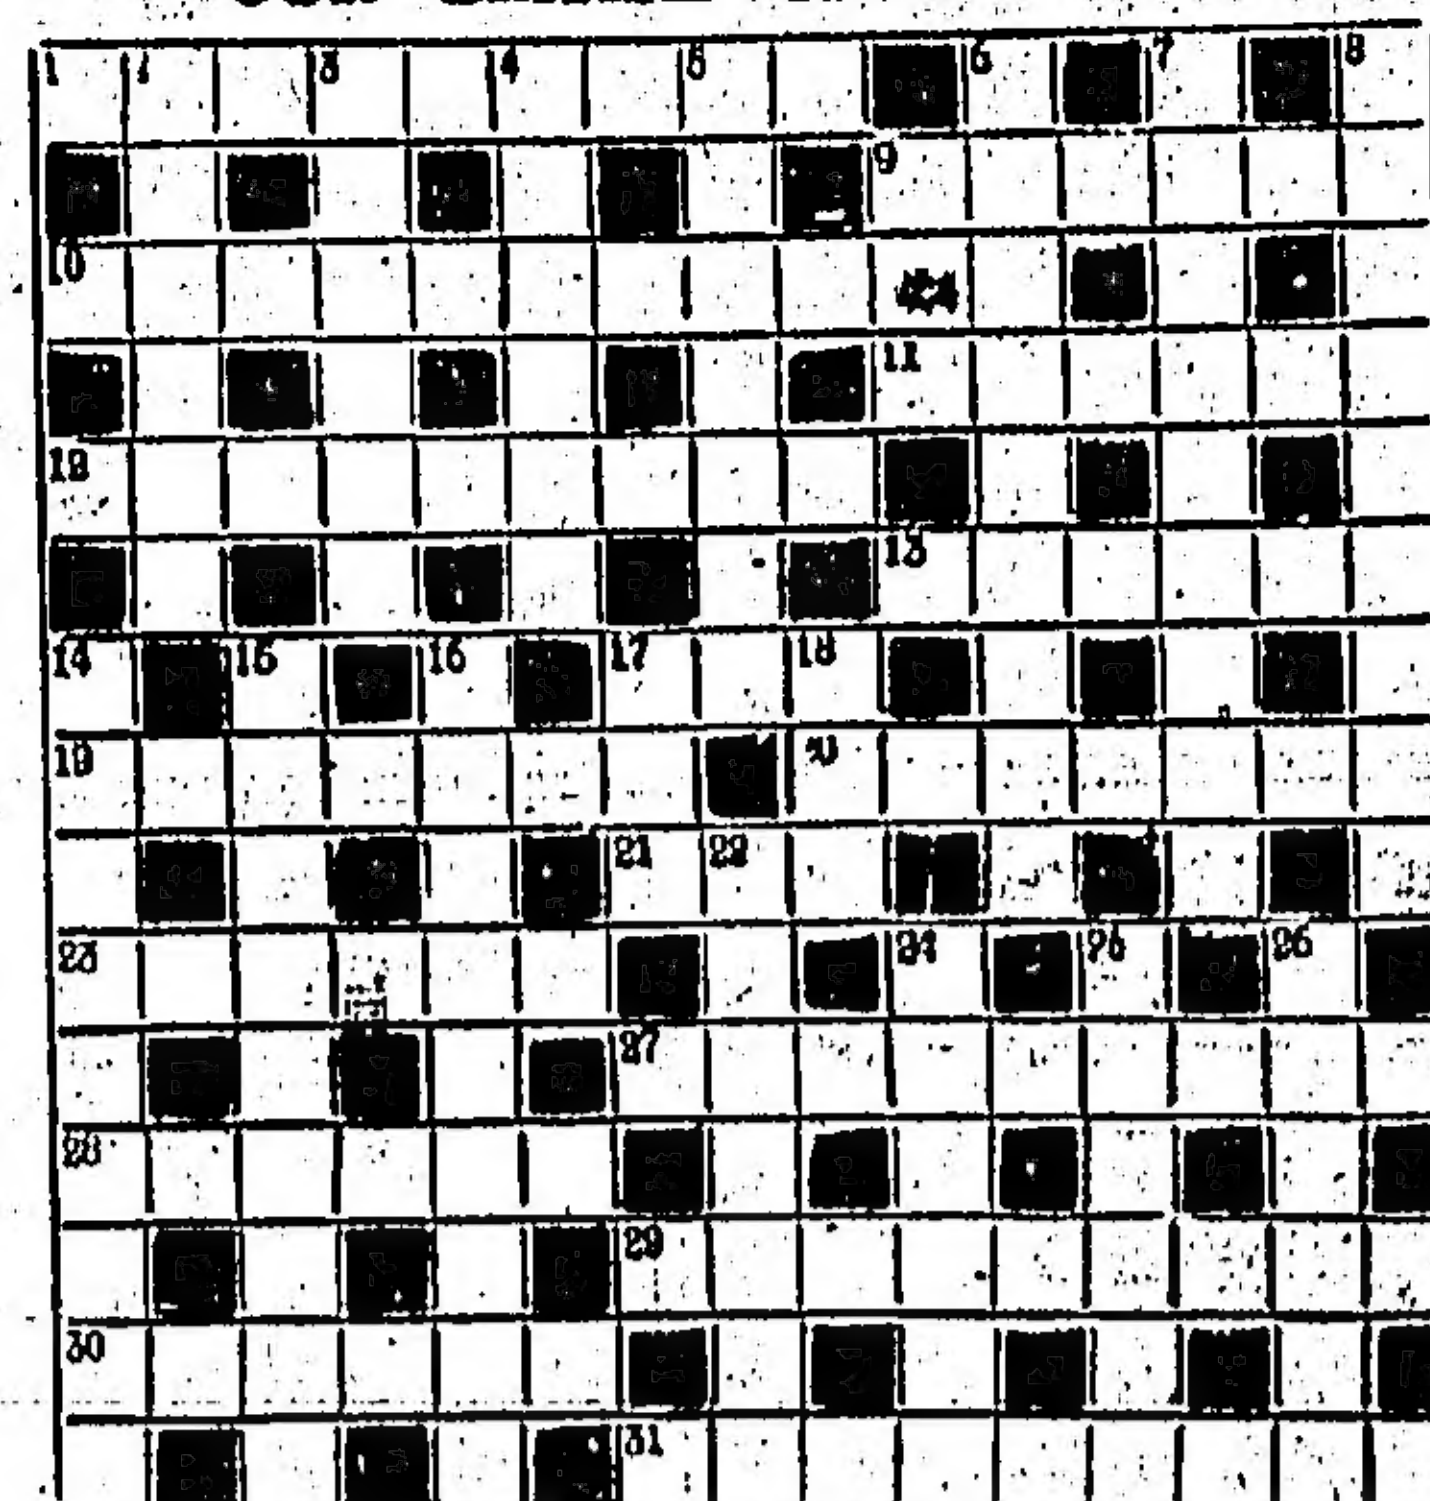

Another Attitude.

Up in the mountains a fine woman with clear eyes, not yet rested, was saying, "I must be getting home soon. School won't be long now. I dread this time of year. I always call it the frightening period. About half the children who start in have been talked at all summer - until they are like nervous little rabbits. Either that or they are determined not to submit."

"I wish people wouldn't worry these babies before hand. Just let them take it for granted and let them walk in without a lot of priming. It takes me weeks to unscare them and assure them that they won't be eaten or beaten."

"Sometimes it's the other way and they are promised a Roman holiday just to get them there. That's almost as bad. The best way is to talk very little at all and act as though school were as natural as breakfast or the sun."

SALESMAN SAM

Sam's Misunderstood!

By Small

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

CHAPTER XLVIII.

It was the day of the May festival in Pine Forest. Eve awakened at dawn, with the first chimes of the church bells, and looked out of the window. Already lights were burning in the basement of the little white church at the Four Corners. She aroused Dick.

"Bright May day now is dawning o'er us!" She sang the words of a song she had learned in grade school.

They went to breakfast in the church that morning in accordance with a custom brought from New England by the first settlers of Pine Forest. Breakfast was served from five o'clock until nine and although Eve and Dick were among the first to arrive they had company. The owner of the general store sat at their table and the general manager of the paper mill was next to Dick. Opposite sat the village tailor, polite and attentive.

The men discussed business conditions. Before Eve had finished the delicious pancakes served with new maple syrup a group of teachers came in.

"After breakfast we are going up into the woods for May flowers," they told her and invited Eve to join them. But she declined, although she was touched by their thoughtfulness.

This day she had set aside to spend with Dick. Soon she would be leaving and she wanted to make the most of the short time remaining. They lingered over their coffee and then left the church. In the tall white steeples the chimes were ringing again. A sense of peace seemed to surround them. Eve slipped her arm through Dick's and as they strolled past the wide lawns on Main street they watched the sun, red-gold, come up over the top of Eagle Hill. Birds were twittering in the tree tops and in Mrs. Williams' garden the pink flowering almond was blooming, flanked by yellow forsythia.

That morning Eve rode out to the camp with Dick. The hospital buildings loomed up attractively in that vast wooded area. Dick took Eve on a tour of inspection and she felt an increased respect for the powers that were bringing into being this great institution of healing. By midsummer the hospital was to be opened. Dick, however, would remain there to begin work on more buildings to be added to the unit. That meant that in all likelihood he would spend another year at Pine Forest.

Another long year without Dick! Another year of such loneliness as she had known for the last eight months. Her mother's words came back to her. "You're not being fair to your husband!"

Eve drove the roadster slowly over the four-mile stretch back to the village. She felt the charm of the countryside and longed to relax and become a part of it. Yet she felt another urge which drew her away into the turmoil of life in Lake City.

She stopped at the little post office and found a letter from Arlene.

"Eve, dear, we are married," wrote Arlene. "Sam and I both dreaded the fuss and excitement of a wedding so we just slipped away and were married at Saint James' church last Saturday. Sam's brother and my cousin were the witnesses.

"We drove to Niagara Falls for our honeymoon. Well—why not Niagara Falls? My parents and their parents, too, went to Niagara Falls for their honeymoons. Anyhow Sam wasn't in a hurry to get back so we didn't return until Tuesday night. We're staying with my parents until we find a place of our own."

"Sam refused to let me go to the office Wednesday and I'm not going back at all! I called Mr. Barnes to tell him I was married and he was very sweet about it. I guess he thinks well of Sam."

"We're looking for a house now. We want a little white one with green blinds and a wide red chimney out in one of the suburbs. Sam says he is tired of apartments and for years he's been ambitious to have a rose garden."

Eve sat still for a long while after she read Arlene's letter. She was experiencing a conflict of emotions and her mind was torn with indecision. She was glad for Arlene—glad that her friend was so happy, and yet she envied that happiness. Because of her own overwhelming ambition, Eve realized, she was thrusting aside the joy that might belong to her and her husband.

And what confusion there must be with both Arlene and herself absent from the office. Eve felt she should go back immediately. She turned the car about and drove in the direction of the little lake where Dick had taken her that first Sunday. High up in the hills she stopped and walked through the woods, kicking up pine needles as she went. When she came to the edge where she could look down at the water below she slipped to the ground and gave herself up to enjoying the golden sunshine.

Here, with the fragrance of the pines carried by the gentle spring breeze, it was easier to think. Eve felt able to take a detached view of her problems and analyze them impersonally.

After a long while she arose and with one hand brushed back her honey-coloured hair. There was a shining light in her amber eyes and her firm little chin was held high. With determination in her step she returned to the car and drove back to the village.

She wrote three letters but did not mail them, then drove to the camp again for Dick. While she sat in the roadster waiting for him doubts once more assailed her. Did Dick really want her to go back to Lake City or would he rather have her stay here? He had told others as well as Aunt Sophronia that Eve was returning at the end of two weeks. And he had said it in a voice so certain that it left no cause for doubt. Surely if he wanted her to stay he would have implied it in some way!

But Dick looked so genuinely glad to find her waiting for him that Eve felt a responsible glow of pleasure as their eyes met.

"Love me a little?" Eve asked wistfully as they drove over the hill.

"Love you—oh, the least little bit!" he teased, smiling.

After dinner Eve asked him to read the letters she had addressed to Mr. Bixby, Mr. Barnes and to Arlene and Sam. The letter to Mr.

Bixby contained her resignation and suggested that he consider Sam for the vacancy. Sam Holmridge, she wrote, was in her estimation better qualified to take charge of Bixby's advertising than any other person in Lake City. The letter to Arlene and Sam suggested immediate application for the job.

Dick was amazed as he looked up from the page he had been reading.

"But are you sure," he asked, "that I haven't influenced you to do this, Eve?"

"No, you didn't influence me. You didn't even encourage me to stay here," Eve told him frankly. "I've thought the whole thing out, Dick. I had the satisfaction of reaching the goal I had set for myself. You and I and a few others know I could have become advertising manager of the store. I don't think anyone else would have been much interested. Staying in Lake City would have meant realizing that ambition but if realizing it had to mean losing you—oh, Dick, we came so close to losing each other!"

"No, we didn't," he assured her emphatically. "I wanted you to work out your problem in your own way. I've never believed in forcing anyone into decisions. But I was willing to wait. I thought that if you cared enough for me you'd come to me in time."

"Cared for you?" echoed Eve. "Are you sure, darling, that you will be contented here?" he asked.

And Eve answered firmly. "Yes. Something had to be sacrificed and it couldn't be you!"

Dick took her in his arms. (The End.)

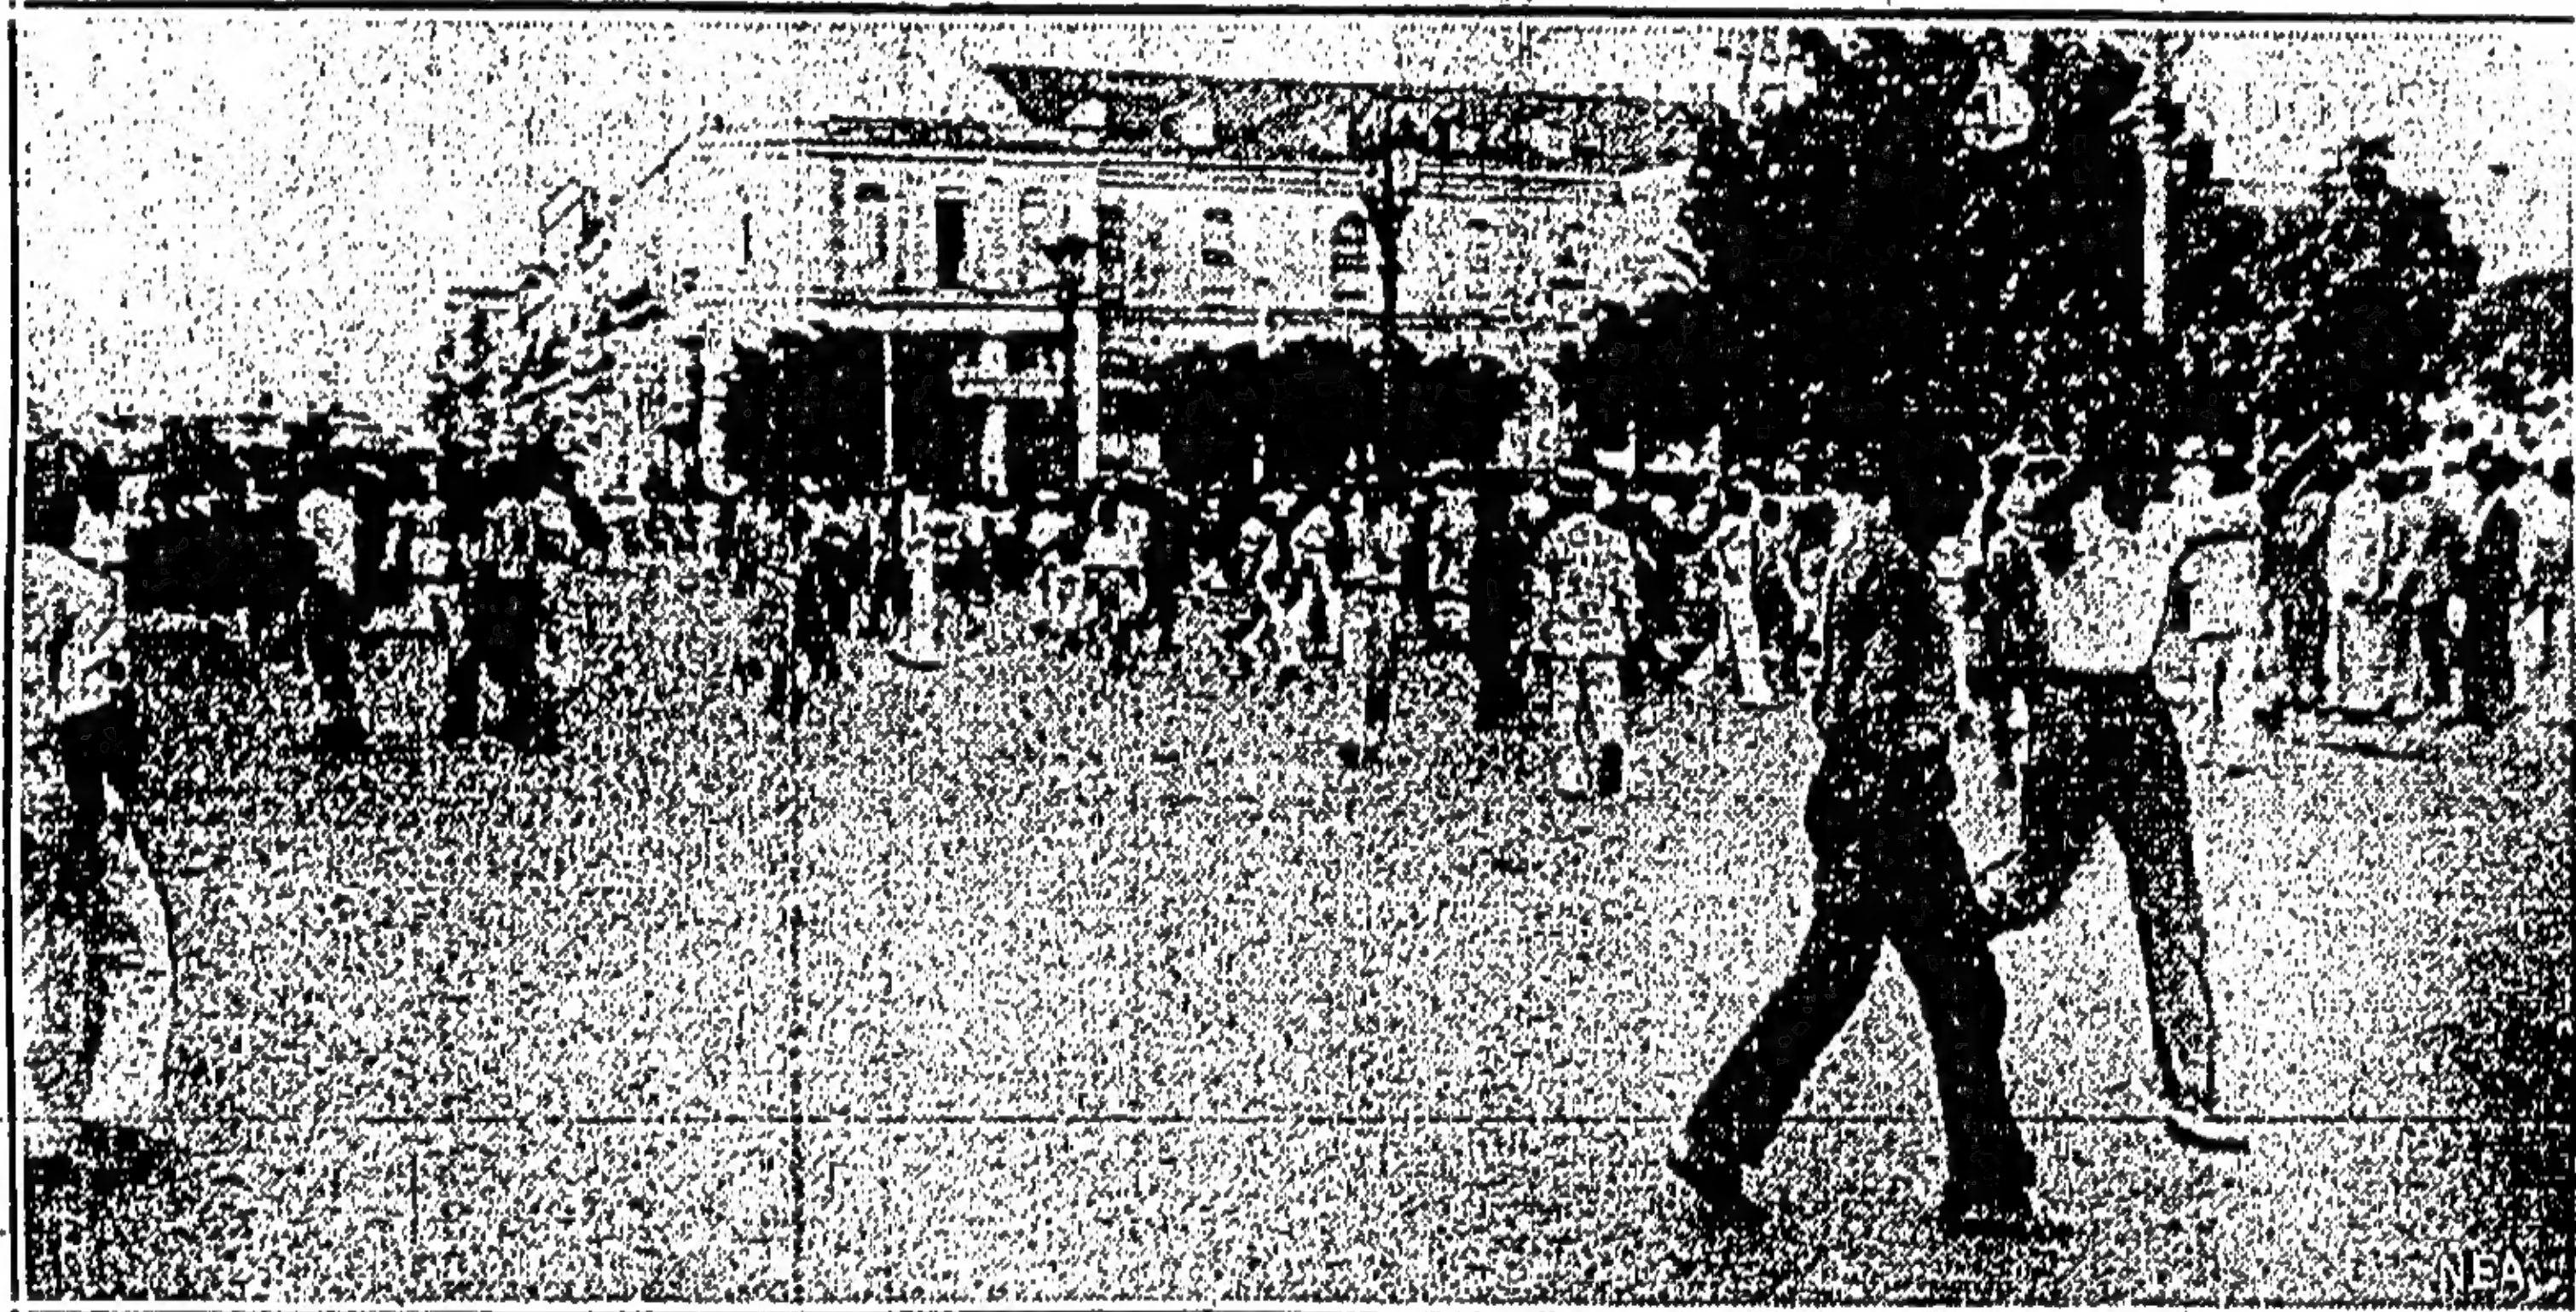

GRAPHIC PICTURES OF THE CUBAN RIOTS

Here are series of graphic pictures of the Cuban riots. Above shows how, with the police disarmed, and soldiers refusing to interfere, and orgy of looting and destruction swept the Cuban capital after the announcement of President Machado's downfall.

Crimson pools in a side street of Havana give mute testimony to the sanguinary massacre that occurred near the Presidential Palace, when guards fired on demonstrators. Here natives stand in awe-stricken silence at the spot where several of their countrymen fell.

Almost as the camera clicked, the machine guns of presidential palace guards opened death-dealing fire upon this throng which had gathered in Havana streets to celebrate a false report that President Machado has resigned. Twenty-five were killed, more than 100 wounded. Members of the crowd ran in all directions to escape the spray of bullets.

As word swept over the embattled city of Havana that the regime of President Gerardo Machado was at an end, thousands of joyful celebrants swept into the presidential palace to loot and destroy. The result of the mob's frenzy is strikingly pictured above. Windows and doors were smashed; rich furnishings pulled down and carried away; state papers and records tossed into the court in a hithered mass. Here you see members of the mob searching the debris, and others carrying loot from the palace.

PETROL CONSUMPTION OF FORD CARS.

ECONOMY COMPETITION BY WALLACE HARPER & CO.

Covering 37.4 miles to the gallon, Mr. J.D. Lloyd won the competition for the "V8" Ford models, in the Ford petrol economy competition staged by Messrs. Wallace Harper & Co. local Ford dealers, at Kowloon on Saturday afternoon. Twenty-six Ford car owners took part in the competition.

In the class for Baby Fords, Mr. Ng Chiu-yin took first prize by covering 59.48 miles to the gallon. The cars in the test had their petrol tanks drained at the Company's Service Station, Kowloon, and replenished with three gallons in the case of the "V8" Fords and two gallons for the Baby Fords. Mr. C. Dodson, an official of the Hongkong Automobile Association, sealed each of the tanks after they had received their petrol supply.

The cars then made a complete circuit of the New Territory, returning to the Service Station a distance of approximately 52 miles. The seals were then broken by Mr. Dodson and the contents of the petrol tank drained and measured. At the conclusion prizes were presented to the winning competitors before a large gathering of Ford owners and friends. The prizes were donated by The Asiatic Petroleum Company, The Dunlop Rubber Company, Messrs. Melchers (Goodrich Tyres), Messrs. Carlowitz and Company (Continental Tyres) and The Sincere Company.

Results.

The following were the results of the competitions in the "V8" Class and the Baby Ford Class:
"V8"—1, Mr. J. D. Lloyd, 37.4 miles to the gallon (Silver Cocktail Set); 2, Captain J. A. Peterson, 20.71 miles to the gallon (Atwater-Kent Radio Set).
Baby Ford—1, Mr. Ng Chiu-yin, 59.48 miles to the gallon (Silver Cake Dish); 2, Mr. T. Young, 54.74 miles to the gallon (Silver Sweet Dish).

Major C. M. Mannors, Vice-President of the Hongkong Automobile Association, and the Rev. G. E. S. Updell, past Secretary, were among the spectators.

The Competitors.

The following owners competed in the test:

JAPAN AND LEAGUE.

confronting it would inevitably be increased.

The vernacular newspapers have not yet mentioned the German move editorially, but give prominence to the views of officials.

Viscount Araki is quoted as having declared that Germany's withdrawal was unexpected though understandable, and was a further proof of the incompetence of the League.

The comments reflect a recognition of the serious effect of the latest developments to Europe, though the effects and possible aftermath in Japan cannot be predicted yet.—Reuter.

POLICY NOT AFFECTED BY LATEST DEVELOPMENTS.

Tokyo, Oct. 16.

Germany's action will not affect Japan's fixed policy with regard to the League of Nations and the Disarmament Conference, declared Mr. Shigemitsu, the vice-minister of Foreign Affairs, in a statement to the press.

He stated that he did not think the Disarmament Conference would collapse, though the difficulties

TROOPS MASSING

WAR CLOUDS GATHER IN THE NORTH

Harbin, Oct. 14. Trains laden with Soviet troops are being rushed to the frontier regions of Western and Eastern Siberia, according to foreign travellers from Europe, who assert that troop-trains overtook them at regular intervals of 45 minutes.

At the same time, Manchukuo is reported to be concentrating troops at Hallar.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Consul-General here has lodged a fifth protest against the detention of the Chinese Eastern Railway officials, but the demand for their release is being ignored by Manchukuo.

Commerce and trade in Harbin continues to remain at a standstill.—Reuter.

Japanese Concentration.

Tokyo, Oct. 14. It is reliably reported that troops are concentrating at Mukden, Changchun and Harbin, apparently as a precautionary measure, but ostensibly as preparatory to a bandit drive.—Reuter.

JAPANESE RECRUITING.

Formation of Large Mongolian Cavalry Division.

Nanking, Oct. 14. The Central Daily News gives prominence to a report from Mongolian sources to the effect that the Kwantung Army has been instructed to organize a force of 20,000 Mongolian cavalry within two years.

It is stated that Japanese recruiting agents have been sent out but that there has been little response to their efforts.

The paper finally alleges that the projected force is intended for use against the Soviet.—Reuter.

LONDON OBSERVER.

Significant Activity In Russo-Japanese Crisis.

London, Oct. 15. There is no mistaking the seriousness of the Russo-Japanese phase of Far Eastern disturbance, says the Observer to-day. "The haggling over the price of the Chinese Eastern Railway is merely the occasion, not the whole cause of the dissonance," the newspaper adds.

It does not matter that the League of Nations' competence does not extend either to Russia or Japan, for Western Europe, where theoretically it does exist, is in a bad state.

It is probably no accident, the Observer says significantly, that Moscow is assiduously courting the goodwill of Warsaw and Paris.—Reuter.

GARRISON LEAGUE.

Commanding Officers Play In Last Match.

BORDERERS' SUCCESSES.

The last match of the Garrison Tennis League was played at Sookun-poo yesterday, when Headquarters Wing, Borderers, beat Headquarters Wing, Lincolns, by 5-2 points.

A rather unusual feature was the appearance in the teams of the two Commanding Officers and to add to the interest, the match in which they opposed each other was the decisive one of the day.

The Borderers found themselves more at home on the grass courts than their opponents but there were some stiff games before the honour of being runners-up in the League was decided.

The League winners are "D" Company, Borderers.

When Lt. Col. Raikes and partner of the Borderers opposed Lt. Col. Boys and partner, the latter's team were already a point behind and if the Lincolns were to win, that set and the following set against Major Lechner and partner had to be won.

Tactical Error.

The Lincolns pair lost the first set at 6-0 and as the result of the match was then decided, the other set was not played.

Col. Raikes and C/Sgt. Jarman played a fast but steady game and their straight drives carried the day. Col. Boys had planned to lob and kill the return but as often as not the lobs were the wrong side of the line, and this together with a few errors proved costly.

The full results were:

Col. Raikes and C/Sgt. Jarman (H. Q. Borderers), beat Col. Boys and Pte. Turner, 6-3; beat Lt. Powell and B. M. Trout, 6-1; beat Lt. Powell and B. M. Trout, 4-0; beat Lt. Powell and B. M. Trout, 4-0; beat Lt. Powell and B. M. Trout, 4-0.

GERMANY'S BLUNDER

To the rest of his topsy-turvy achievements in the foreign field, Herr Hitler has added the colossal blunder of withdrawal from the League of Nations and from the Disarmament Conference. It might have been an occasion for the gravest anxiety; it still provides a situation demanding the highest qualities in world statesmen; but the worst danger has already been surmounted. The solidarity of the English-speaking peoples has been stated as plainly as it could be, forming with France and Italy a powerful combination for the preservation of peace. The United States stands firmly with its Great War allies in opposition to Germany's rearmament and Herr Hitler's bluff, if bluff it was, has been called. As a dramatic gesture, it has an effect, but bombshell has missed its main mark. Like so many other actions designed by the Nazi leader to further Germany's aims, the result has merely been to consolidate the powers of resistance, to bring them more closely together. Instead of placatory appeals, which it is fair to suspect were anticipated in Berlin, the United States, Britain and France, with Italy hardly less strong in support, find themselves in a clearer atmosphere, knowing exactly what they have to face and prepared to meet it. Herr Hitler, in announcing the decision, made a moderately toned speech contrasting astonishingly with the futility and tragedy of the action inspiring it, urging a claim to a sincere desire for peace to justify an action which is bound to cramp the resources of practical statesmanship in the quest for a solution of Europe's problems. Instead of assisting. Nothing could show more clearly the shortsightedness of the Nazi vision. For if the complete severance of relations with Geneva is not an example of the childish petulance of the frustrated, then Germany's pretensions are insincere and prohibition of rearmament in any form becomes the more essential in the interests of peace. As to the immediate future, there seems little that can be done. The Disarmament Conference is effectively torpedoed; an effort must be made to prevent it from going under completely, to preserve at least the shell until reason is restored. Time is likely to prove the most successful healer, provided Germany does not cut loose in other directions.

NOTES OF THE DAY

FAR EAST CRISIS

The situation in the Far East is of more immediate concern than the crisis in Europe. Trouble may be brewing in the West but there is plenty of time in which to discover ways to restore confidence. There is not a moment to spare if conflict is to be avoided over the Chinese Eastern Railway. The outlook is none the less ominous because the intervals between the barking of the dogs over this bone of contention have become wider. It calls, rather, for a keener watch. Events have been moving rapidly towards the stage where vocal outbursts cease to have value or influence. And neither Soviet Russia nor Japan have been slow to realise it. With tension clearly on the verge of breaking-point, we look in vain for any means by which it may be eased off without causing an upheaval. On the contrary, circumstances accounts of military preparations are frequent, further electrifying the atmosphere.

HOW SOON?

We are prepared to believe that both Soviet Russia and Japan would welcome an opportunity to draw back if it could be done without loss of prestige. That is the essence of the crisis. Eliminate the question of national honour and a compromise might be possible. But can it be eliminated? Japan (or Manchukuo: it is much the same thing) is heavily committed to drastic curtailment of the rights of exercise in the railway by the Soviet. Any modification of this policy would be interpreted as a Soviet triumph and the Japanese General Staff are in no mood for such an interpretation. Russia's position is vastly different. Japan has been encroaching upon her preserves to an extent which must seem to Moscow to demand the calling of a halt. She calls it before it involves defence of her own territories. The alternative is to sink away and submit to every dictate of Japan's Empire-builders, to sacrifice any influence remaining to her in the East. If the situation is thus correctly analysed there remains little more to be said. For either party, it is give way or fight. Only one question remains. How soon?

THE BUS WAR

The Colony's own little war, the community v. the bus services, is also making progress. Residents of Kowloon Tong have summoned the Kowloon Bus Company with the result that fines have been imposed. There would be more of such prosecutions if private individuals had the time to spare to make appearances in Court.

ADEQUATE WARNING

The present is hardly the proper time to harness the bus companies. An adequate warning has been given. No immediate improvement can fairly be expected and a spate of prosecutions because an example has been set would savour of vindictiveness. If observation reveals anything, the Monopolists have enough serious problems on their hands without being subjected to what could easily become, in the circumstances, persecution. The fact is, or seems to be, that the companies at the moment could not live up to the terms of the Contract if they tried. The public must bear with them for a while. More damage, wear and tear, has been done to the vehicles in service during the four months of the new franchise than in twelve months of ordinary handling. But the companies seem to possess neither efficient drivers nor an adequate technical staff. Experience suggests that if the inexperienced drivers employed feel that an engine is not behaving properly they run it to standstill and accentuate the trouble.

THE REMEDIES

Only a radical reorganisation can set things right. The causes of complaint will not respond to patchwork. We doubt if it is at all possible to bring the various services up to the required standard without the importation of a fleet of new buses to be employed in conjunction with the best of the old. This is true of both sides of the harbour, although it refers particularly to Kowloon. After that, unless the service is to degenerate once again, it will be necessary to ensure that the drivers employed are capable of handling the vehicles without tearing their "innards" to pieces. These things cannot appear in a moment; the public can only expect, for some time, that the companies will do their best with their present equipment. And one contribution to happier conditions would be action to convince employees that discourtesy and slackness are not part and parcel of the elimination of competition.

NOISES. I WOULD LIKE TO SEE STOPPED

A. P. HERBERT

A DREADFUL cat has been let out of the bag. A man who makes silencers for motor-cars has revealed that the young people who drive about in high-powered sports cars buy fewer and fewer silencers: they demand "partial" silencers and prefer no silencer at all—for the "crackle" of the exhaust makes them think they are speed kings, and they love it.

They enjoy noise. All of us complain that there is too much noise; yet most of us must confess that there are noises we enjoy, and if all noises were miraculously eliminated the world would certainly be a dismal place. Half the fun of Niagara, is its noise.

The question is: What noises are redundant? And the answer is: The other fellow's noises.

I love the sound of church bells floating across the Sussex Downs about cocktail-time. But I cannot bear the church bells at 7 a.m. though they are a delight to many. I love most of the characteristic sounds of the water traffic—the steady clinkety-clink of a sailing barge's windlass getting up the anchor in the early morning, the rattle of the blocks as the top's goes up, the far-off titter-titter of a power-boat on the canal, the metallic clatter of the locks as the boatmen drop the "paddles," the roar of water as the lock begins to fill; even the sometimes unnecessary noisy noise of a tug's or steamer's siren booming in the heart of London.

But on land the noise of vehicles is odious to me. Motor-horns madden me; I loathe loud exhausts, the rumbling lorry, the crunching gears, the engine blowing off steam.

I like, I think, the sound of a horse's hoofs, but not its neigh or whinny, or whatever it is. And on cobblestones cartwheels are an agony.

My neighbours dislike me if I play up late and sing. I dislike them if they get up early and whistle joyously in the street. Other people's strumming on the piano can be tiresome, but how I enjoy my own!

The poets and others love the morning anthem of the birds: so should I if I could sleep through it. Some are enraged by the evening song of alcoholic revellers. I much prefer that to the morning noises of the worthy milkman bringing life and health to mothers and babies.

He, too, is one of those hearty whistlers—at 6 or 6 o'clock in the morning. Nobody says anything, because he is bringing milk; and because he is up early and working he thinks he is entitled to whistle and wake me up.

Well, I sit up till one in the morning working. But if I then go out in the street and whistle joyously, I shall get, at least, nasty letters.

Milk leads to tea. The literary men write lovingly of the kettle singing in the hob. An elderly lady has told me that the noise that maddens her most is a singing kettle. She would rather sit in the middle of a brass band. Where are we?

But poets and literary men are always praising noises—the click of bat on ball, the school lawnmower, the charming prattle of children (O dear!), the blacksmith's hammer (Golly!), the lowing herd (Mercy!), the "crack" of the rifle, the "cry" of the hound, the beat of the drum, the wind in the trees, the bleating of lambs, the plash of fountains.

Yes, there is no doubt that we do like noise.

If one of those electric drills came to my street I should embrace it, but crowds of people stand round and enjoy them, and my boy would rather have ten minutes of an electric drill than ten minutes of Caruso.

For all I know there may be those who enjoy a good snuff, or the crackling of chocolate-piper at a matinee, or the man who goes to a first night with a cough as regular as a pumping engine, or the ship's siren in a fog.

Then, of course, the Voice of the Beloved is generally supposed to be a good thing. But put thirty women together in a room at a cocktail party—all somebody's Beloveds—and I would willingly swap them for an electric drill.

Nearly all the material things which distinguish this age from the last are things which make or communicate more noise than there was before—the telephone, the talkies, the gramophone, the wireless, the car, the aeroplane, the steam-plough, the motor-lorry, the typewriter, the high explosive, the saxophone, extension lectures, cocktail parties, restaurant bands, and international conferences. An alarming list. No wonder the world grows madder.

And now they want to bust the Atom—good and hard!

What is the most precious of our political liberties? Free speech, which means free political speech—the dearest form of noise there is. But some love it. Very soon we shall be talking of our inalienable right to make a noise.

The noisy bather is one of my bug-bears. The moment he is in the water he has to shout and scream. The happy lads of Hammersmith are a sore trial to me some summer days. But when my son goes in the river he is just as bad, except that I can stop him.

A young couple glide up in a punt very much in love. They come to a quiet corner of the river. They have the whole world to themselves and the whole of life to discuss. And they go and turn on the gramophone because they would feel embarrassed without it.

The jazz bands we like best are undoubtedly those which make most noise. We used to have nice quiet cinemas; but then they brought in music and afterwards "sound."

We used to be able to sleep during after-dinner speeches: now there are loud-speakers all over the room. We can't enjoy our food in a restaurant unless a band is playing or somebody sings.

A theatre audience must never be left in silence for an instant between scenes; the band must play from curtain-fall to curtain-rise; and if the music runs out they must play the same piece again.

Now we have to have wireless in our cars lest silence, like a pestilence, should fall upon the roads. I know an artist who works all

The Very Idea!

CONGRATULATIONS
By Eddie "Shakespeare"
Kelly, Barred.

WHEN we arrived in the office on Saturday the first thing that caught our eye was the disorder in the general office on the ground floor.

Then, when we reached our desk, we found the reason. We'd forgotten all about our birthday announcement on Friday.

After about three hours we were able to sort the flood of congratulatory cables, letters and chits into some semblance of order.

We have picked out a dozen or so at random to fill in the column to-day.

Mr. J. H. Taggart, Managing Director of the Hongkong and Shanghai Hotels Ltd., enthusiastically wrote as follows: Mr. E. Kelly, Hongkong Telegraph: "Sir, The announcement in Friday's issue of the Telegraph that you celebrated the Very Idea twelve months ago reminds us that your account with our Company is overdue for a like period. We would appreciate an immediate settlement. Yours patient-ly."

But wait till you read this cable we got from London. KELLY HONGKONG.—LONDON PRESS REPORTS YOU CELEBRATE FIRST ANNIVERSARY STOP BRITISH GOVERNMENT LOOKS TO YOU TO KEEP GOING STOP PLEASE GO EASY ON DISARMAMENT STOP LOOK FOR YOUR NAME IN NEXT NEW YEAR HONOURS LIST STOP RAMSAY MACDONALD.

Another cable speaks for itself. EDWARD KELLY HONGKONG.—CONGRATULATIONS MAY I HAVE YOUR AUTOGRAPH.—GEORGE BERNARD SHAW.

But we regret to say that all the cables and letters have not been congratulatory. For instance, Major Cassel wrote us as follows: Dear Edward Kelly.—In the last issue of the Critic I inadvertently wrote an account of your death. Please accept my apologies. I am sorry this is not correct.

There is rage as well as terror in a cabled appeal we received from Herr Hitler, of Germany: "You will be satisfied now. Have stood your sarcasm long enough, but last article was last straw stop Entirely your fault Germany has resigned—from League.—Communist Articles—gravelly injuring prestige, self, wife, family stop Aren't there people in Hongkong you can attack. Stop Why pick on me? Stop."

Cable from President Daladier: Bella France unflinchingly faces border enemies and will insist on rights Geneva, but we cannot hope success if you antagonistic stop Sending us gross Croix des Guerres—three gross Medailles Militaires for distribution amongst your friends. Stop. Be merciful as strong.

And from Australia: Australian Board Control deplores continued references bodyline fullstop Bradman threatens not play next season if you continue make fun of him stop Why not pick on Larwood stop Posting full details his history courier for your information.

There are several other letters we could print, but the Editor won't let us. He says the Telegraph is a respectable newspaper.

"VENGEANCE IS MINE"

The girl ran her slender fingers up and down the lapels of his dinner-jacket.

"You must go now," she sighed, "before my husband returns."

She swung round suddenly.

"Hell!" she gasped. "He's coming now."

Ralph turned pale.

"He will find us. He will guess everything," he muttered distractedly. The footstep came nearer.

"Quick! Quick! You must hide!" she urged frantically.

But it was too late. The doorway framed a vengeful figure, automatic in hand.

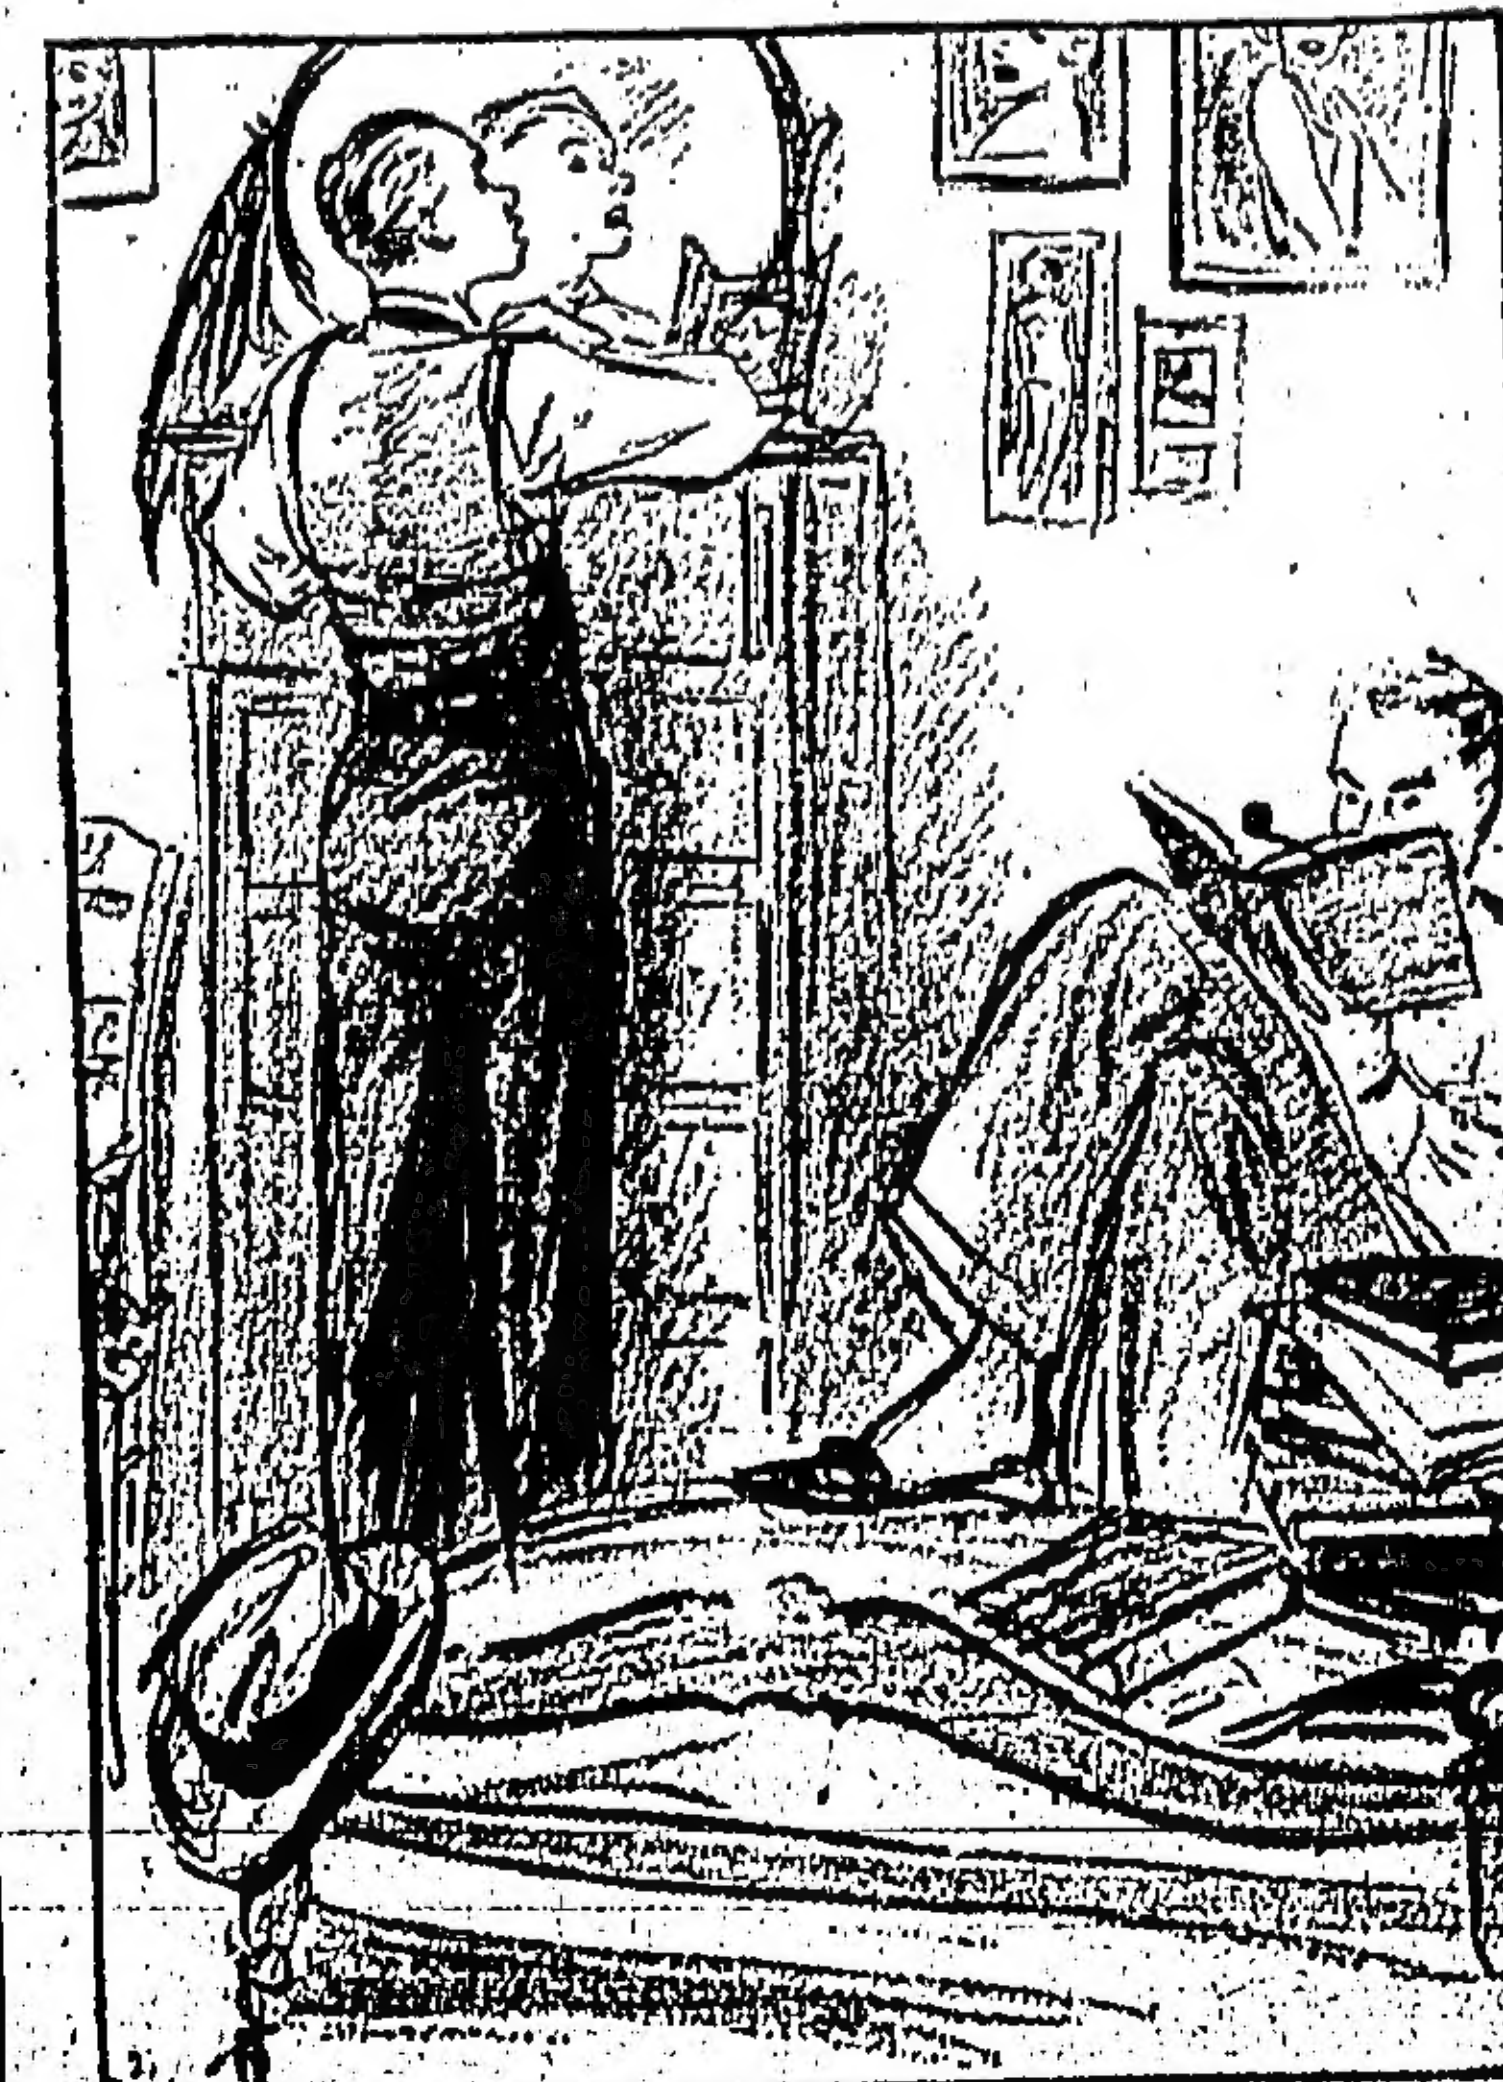

The automatic spoke.

"Thud!"

A crimson stream welled into a pool beneath the still form which had been Ralph Grayson.

"God! You've killed him," Joan gasped, weakly.

Her slim figure slumped, crumpled, and slid, in a senseless heap, to the carpet.

"I'm afraid she is getting a serious. Her parents have started looking me over."

SCHOOLGIRL TEAM FOR CAER CLARK CUP

CEN. BRITISH SCHOOL TO TAKE PART

MISS H. KNILL
TO PLAY
SEVEN POSITIONS FILLED

LOCAL HOCKEY
INNOVATION

(By "Veritas").

For the first time in the history of the local game, schoolgirls will this year take part in competitive hockey.

Miss H. Knill, sports mistress at the Central British School this morning revealed that the C.B.S. is entering a team for the Caer Clark Cup.

With the exception of Miss Knill and another mistress, the team will be composed of C.B.S. pupils.

"We made a start at hockey last year," said Miss Knill, "and for the most part our players are comparative beginners. But we are practicing hard, and although I cannot indicate with any certainty what standard we shall attain, I am particularly anxious that the girls shall have the experience of senior hockey and for that reason we are entering a team for the Caer Clark Cup this winter."

SOME OF THE PLAYERS.

Miss Knill, whose hold move is bound to do much to raise the standard of hockey in Hongkong, has not yet completed the team, but can point to seven certainities. They are:

J. Bryson (left back)
R. Ingram (left back)
J. Holland (centre-half)
J. McCaw (right half)
Miss Marsh (right wing)
L. Hickley (right inner)
Miss H. Knill (centre-forward).

From these players Miss Knill is looking forward to supplying the nucleus of a useful team. With herself and Miss Marsh in the forward line, defences will, certainly, be kept busy.

INTENSIVE PRACTICE.

Practice matches are now being indulged in almost daily, and the team will take part in its first serious game to-day week, when the Central British Association will provide the opposition.

On November 4, the schoolgirls meet the Hongkong Ladies Club, and from this encounter will have a real opportunity of measuring their strength.

The team will use their own school ground for a number of matches, but as it is also occupied by the C.B.A., the bigger proportion of their games will have to be played on other grounds.

Last Friday it was stated in the Telegraph that Miss Knill was at present away from the Colony but would play for the Hongkong Club on her return.

We were misinformed on this point, and have been asked to add that Miss Knill, although retaining membership of the Hongkong Ladies Club, will definitely play for the Central British School in the Caer Clark Cup and other matches this season.

In this innovation Miss Knill will carry with her the sympathetic interest of all local hockey players, and the progress of her proteges will be watched closely.

A. R. Dallah Defeats A. M. Omar in a Close Game.

A. R. Dallah won the bowls singles championship of the Indian Recreation Club yesterday morning when he defeated A. M. Omar by 25 shots to 18 over 20 heads. Leading 8-4 at the seventh end, Dallah led at 15-9 at the head.

Omar made a good recovery and at the 18th end led by 18-17. However on the 19th end Omar lay three shots sufficient for victory, but Dallah came through to snatch a wood.

call for a varying technique of play, so in bowls it is essential to get your seasons No. 1, 2, 3 and skip.

MAIN'S chief job here was not getting his men to indulge in practice, so much as to find which had the quicker adaptability to positions which were strange to them. It made a tremendous difference to the strength of Shanghai as a team.

CHELSEA WANT THEM!

AFTER reading about the exploits of the South China Athletic Association footballers in Nanking I feel that the greatest gesture of international goodwill which China could now make would be to offer the South China forward line to Chelsea.

THIRTY-EIGHT goals in two matches! That's a goal scored at intervals of 4 minutes 12 3/5 seconds. It seems too that our local team's defence is not in bad shape, for only one goal was conceded. There is the suggestion of the incongruous about this!

BUT the real merit of the South China eleven was tested yesterday when they met and defeated Peking. All Hongkong will now be looking forward to hear of the team's final achievements.

SPEY ROYAL FINAL.

It was announced this morning that the Spey Royal Cup final between Kowloon Dock Recreation Club and Craigongower Cricket Club has been arranged for next Saturday.

The game will be played at the Civil Service Cricket Club green, starting at 2.45 p.m. sharp, and the referee will be Mr. J. Russell, President of the Hongkong L.B.A.

NOT VERY
CRICKET
TRIAL

BOWLERS' DAY

To all intents and purposes the Interport Cricket Trial on Saturday on the Hongkong Cricket Club ground has given the selectors little or no assistance.

What appears to be a stumbling block in Interport trials is the undue restraint on the part of the participants. Not a few of the batsmen on Saturday were overawed by the occasion, and scoring was painfully slow, even full tosses being treated with respect. This is clearly by the fact that not even two hundred runs were scored for the loss of eighteen wickets during practically four hours of play. Of this the first two hours of play only yielded 87 runs.

The pitch was on the slow side, and gave bowlers little or no assistance. Occasionally a ball rose sharply, but the over-cautious tactics of the batsmen was not at all warranted in the circumstances. The bowlers were not slow in sizing up the situation, and aided fairly good fielding kept the batsmen tied down to the crease.

BOWLERS ON TOP.

A. W. Hayward calling a successful toss of the coin elected to bat, and opened with E. C. Fincher and A. M. Rodriguez. The bowling was entrusted to G. C. Garthwaite and A. R. Minu. The former lost a good length in his first few overs, and was soon rewarded by the wickets of Rodriguez and 'Tam' Pearce both in one over. Minu, on the other hand, was sending down some really gullible deliveries, and kept turning a lot from the leg. He was unfortunately not having Fincher caught early on, E. R. Duckitt dropping a straight hot shot at square leg. Fincher had another life when he skied one to square-leg off Burnett, but Minu failed to get to the ball.

The first hours play only yielded thirty runs, and Fincher, Rodriguez, Pearce, Mader and Hamilton had been sent back. Hayward and Minu then stopped the rot, and by dint of careful scoring took the score to 54 when Hayward was run out. Pearce joined Minu and the rate of scoring was increased, and in half an hour the score was taken to 87 runs when Hayward decided to close the innings.

F. A. Minu, who opened with E. R. Duckitt, was an early victim, being out to a magnificent catch in the slips by E. C. Fincher off A. T. Lee. Captain P. Williams, in association with Duckitt, gradually advanced the score, but did not take any undue risks against Pearce, who was bowling a good length. Duckitt relieved Pearce when he had bowled eight overs, and Williams greeted the new bowler by twice despatching him past his legs to the boundary.

AGGRESSIVE WILLIAMS.

Williams continued his aggressive batting, and scored heavily off Mader, whom he drove straight for two boundaries and followed them up with a six in another over. His was the best innings of the afternoon, characterized by powerful hitting all round the wicket.

After he had retired, the remaining batsmen did not offer much opposition to the bowling of Goodwin and L. Hamilton, and the innings terminated shortly after for 108 runs.

By their performances both Minu and Williams are almost certain to be in the Interport.

The selection for the first Interport with Malaya will probably be made from the following players:—A. W. Hayward (Captain), H. Owen-Hughes, E. C. Fincher, E. F. Fincher, G. C. Burnett, L. A. C. Hamilton, Captain P. Williams, L. G. C. Garthwaite, A. R. Minu, A. H. Mader, F. D. Pearce and G. S. Dunkley (wicket-keeper). T. A. Pearce, who did not take part in this trial, is also almost certain of inclusion.

THAT TERRIBLE 17TH!

INTERPORT LAWN BOWLS WON AND
LOST ON SINGLE HEADHONGKONG REAP THE BENEFIT OF SUPERIOR TEAM PLAY

(By "Veritas").

In the Shanghai lawn bowls clubhouses in years to come you might hear whispered a tragic story entitled "The Shocking Seventeenth." It might not be the same in every detail as the story you would hear to-day, but it will be to the Shanghai lawn bowlers what Bannockburn is to the Sassanachs and the Treaty of Versailles to the Germans—anathema.

For it was on the 17th head that the lawn bowls Interport of 1933 was won and lost. At the close of the 16th Shanghai were leading 18-14. Five minutes later they were losing 19-18, and the fact that Hongkong missed five more shots before the end is of practically no consequence.

Everybody, I think, is prepared to sympathize with Shanghai. Up to that fatal head they had not only established a good looking lead, but were deserving of it.

Those who had judged the capabilities of the visitors purely on the previous results of the four found there were shortcomings in their estimate.

In one of the best exhibitions of lawn bowls seen in Hongkong for a long time, Shanghai regained their prestige to the full.

BOLD TACTICS.
A striking feature of the match was the almost complete absence of "safety-first" tactics. Certainly attention was paid to safeguarding positions won by the No. 1 and 2 players, but on both sides bold tactics were favoured, which as a result gave the spectators a rare treat.

It was not until the 17th and subsequent heads that Hongkong demonstrated how well they could bowl. True there had been glimpses of it earlier on, but generally speaking the honours up to that time had fallen to Shanghai.

In the first place the visitors, thanks to Bailey and Main (especially Main) had staged a thrilling recovery at a point when everything indicated that Hongkong were going away into a long lead. On the 14th Shanghai had wiped off this deficit and themselves led 16-13; another two on the 16th and victory was in sight.

It was between the ninth and the sixteenth that Shanghai as a team pulled themselves together. Up to then Main and Bailey had been playing lone hands. But gradually the example and Malcom, inspired by Richards and their touch and Hongkong were forced to cry best to a worthy rival.

THE SEVENTEENTH.

Then came the deciding change over the game. It was Hall (consistently brilliant in his straight draw to the jack) who laid the first shot. J. C. Brown increased this to three. It was a closed head and quite impossible for Main to make a straight draw. The Shanghai skip tried to open it up with a drive, and just missed. U. M. Omar, with that sureness of touch, came along with two perfect drawing bowls and Hongkong registered the one and only five of the game.

In this match where wits and tactics played almost as important and effective a part as skill, Omar and Main emerged with flying colours. Main had to bear greater responsibilities than Omar because for several heads he did not receive adequate support from Richards and Malcom. It was often left to him single-handed to retrieve an unfortunate position.

Omar was inspired on more than one head and he earned rounds of applause on the early and concluding heads for some brilliant bowls. For sustained accuracy Hall and Bailey, respective first strings easily shared the honours. They took it in turns to take each other out and lay shot and it was their initial deliveries which laid the foundation for the high standard of bowls enjoyed.

AN IDEAL GAME.

B. W. Bradbury played an ideal game at No. 2, rarely failing to give what Omar asked for. Certainly for three parts of the game he was more than a match for Malcom, "Sandy" made a gallant but inauspicious exit from Interport bowls.

To Shanghai the most disappointing feature must have been the loss of form displayed by Charlie Richards. It was his constantly being out-bowled by J. C. Brown which thrust such a burden on Main. Only on the middle heads did the veteran Interporter recapture something of his old time skill.

A closer analysis reveals that once again Hongkong were better as a team and that no matter how fine the individual effort may be, it can rarely hope to beat concerted action.

Shanghai do not take back with them an impressive record, but they have the satisfaction in knowing that in all three Interports they maintained their prestige.

One is tempted to suggest that they did not have all the luck in these three games. Even so Hongkong were worthy victors.

H.E. the Governor, Sir William Peel, K.C.M.G., K.B.E., was amongst the spectators, arriving on the grounds when the fifth head had just been completed. His Excellency was introduced to the players after the game by Mr. J. Russell, the President of the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association. Scores:

BORDERERS' METAMORPHOSIS: LINCOLNS' VICTORY

EVERYTHING else in local league football on Saturday was overshadowed by the match between the Lincolns and the Borderers at Sookunpoo. EXPECTATIONS that it would provide a rare treat of exciting exchanges were completely realised, but nobody anticipated the astonishing debacle of the Borderers, who were beaten by five goals to nil. BELOW will be found a special report of the match.

ONE-MAN TEAM MORRISON SHINES IN DEFEAT

(By "Veritas").

To the heart-rending wail of "Come on the Senior Regiment", emanating from the lips of a wildly enthusiastic spectator, the Lincolns swept through the Borderers at Sookunpoo on Saturday afternoon, defeated them by five clear goals, created the biggest sensation of the day in local football, and made the "24th" feel that Rorke's Drift had been in vain.

This was the first Army "Derby" of the season, and because of this one could, perhaps, be excused, in anticipating that the excitement engendered by the occasion might drive away the skill and science of the game. But if such were the fears of any of the spectators they were soon shown to be unfounded. True, the more artistic elements were practically confined to the one team, but as there was additionally an "atmosphere" about the game, the interest remained at fever pitch, especially when the Borderers missed three open goals in the last ten minutes.

That Penalty

Of course it was that penalty in the first five minutes which defeated the Borderers. When I say that it was a curious decision I am not attempting to find excuses for the losers. They were thoroughly, completely beaten by a better team. But when Higgins tumbled backwards into Mullane after he had headed away and the right back pushed the centreforward off with his hands, it appeared that he was only adopting normal measures of self-protection. Referee Baldwin ruled otherwise, and from the moment Hocquard drove the ball into the corner of the net from the resultant 12 yards spot kick, the Lincolns were on top.

It was the signal for fireworks. Three minutes later Hocquard put across a perfect centre which Mullane and Smith went to clear and Higgins to convert. The latter emerged successful. Within another two minutes the Lincolns had obtained their third, Baldry putting Higgins through after profiting from a mistake by Morrison. (The only blemish of an afternoon's brilliant work), and the Borderers' fate was sealed.

The team which a week before had promised to become champion beaters, were subjugated by a combination which had previously experienced the greatest difficulty in defeating lesser fry.

Aggression and Science

And as the game wore on the Lincolns became more aggressive and more scientific in their aggression. The sheer speed of the first few minutes was augmented by well conceived movements between defence and attack. The difference between a team working as a unit and of a side of eleven separate and totally incompatible units became more and more obvious.

This, in the final analysis, was the distinction between the two eleven. And if the fact that expressed in terms of goals, it ended with the Lincolns five to the good, it was no flattery to the winners.

but merely a true reflex of the game. The one consolation the Borderers obtain from the match is the knowledge that they played far below their form. But it was a sad metamorphosis, relieved only by the magnificent display of Morrison.

Even under the severest pressure, he remained a steady, dour, and often spectacular defender. Though obviously tiring toward the end he remained in the thick of the fray, time after time repulsing the sweeping movements of the Lincoln forwards.

The Most Tragic Feature

To the Borderers the most tragic feature of the match was the utter collapse of the half back line. Podmore covered his usual wide territory but not with the usual results. Ridley, Higgins and McGuinness were too big a handful even for this hard working pivot. Wallace and Underwood both made the fundamental error of confining their attentions to the wingers instead of going in to help Podmore break up the inside trio from whom emanated the majority of the attacks.

The breakdown of this department seemed to demoralise the whole team. The forward line which the previous week had just ousted vitality and cohesion degenerated into muddled and bewildered individuals, whose every kick seemed to miss its mark, whether it be a pass or a shot at goal.

By contrast one saw in the Lincolns a unified team, working together in sympathy and with rhythm. Starting from Heath, whose clean handling was a treat to watch, as also was his judgment, down to the attacking quintette, one could not only fail to detect a weakness, but found it equally difficult to select the most prominent.

Yet I feel constrained to mention the names of Cork, Ridley, Higgins and McGuinness. The first named performed brilliantly at centre-half, carrying out the duties attached to this key position in every detail. Attacks were broken up and forwards fed.

Ridley's Dazzling Display

Ridley has started the season in dazzling style, and on present form I cannot see how he can fail to walk into the representative games, not excluding the Interport. He is the real brains of the Lincoln attacks. But Ridley is not just a schemer. His game is sufficiently mobile and clever to allow him to finish off movements which he has himself conceived somewhere about the halfway line.

His own goal on Saturday was a glorious exhibition of individualism. In Higgins and McGuinness he received support which is so often denied the cleverest of tacticians.

Higgins was tireless, and obviously a subscriber to a paraphrase of the old proverb "While the ball's in play, there's hope." In other words he is an opportunist, and this quality earned for him three goals—a pretty useful afternoon's work.

The Lincolns seem to have made a discovery in McGuinness. The tall inside right revealed many touches not dissimilar to the characteristics of Ridley, and his duels with Morrison were always worth watching.

HARD LUCK POLICE!

DESERVE TO DRAW WITH ATHLETIC SMART FORWARD LINE

In obtaining their first league points of the season at the expense of the Police yesterday, the Chinese Athletic cannot feel that they covered them selves in glory.

In fact a division of goals would have only been fair return for the losers whose display of initiative more than once pierced the Athletic's rearward weaknesses.

The Police were robbed of the services of Brooks early on and it did much to demoralise the team. But it did not break their fighting spirit and twice in the closing stages the Athletic etatude tottered but saved itself.

The Police have a well balanced team full of hard workers. The defence revealed a tendency to become flustered under pressure. The Athletic's last two goals were partially the result of this.

STING EXTRACTED.

Bjittan, Chanings and Shepherd formed a good enough half back line and succeeded in taking quite a lot of the sting out of one of the cleverest forward lines operating in the league.

Gough, the former Royal Artillery inside forward promises to be an acquisition, although I think the Police will do well to bring him to the middle of the field. He was outstanding yesterday and the previous week at right half. Last year he scored a lot of goals and his go-ahead methods might prove of inestimable value from a more favourable position.

Willerton is a trier and his following-up three times embarrassed the Athletic defenders, once to such an extent that the Police scored their second goal. Green gave an impressive account of himself on the left wing, and if Brooks had not been injured, the Athletic defence might have been rattled.

PLENTY OF INCIDENT.

There was plenty of incident in this game. The first was the initial attack on the Chinese goal which saw the cross-bar struck twice in quick succession. Later McIlrady brought off a remarkable save from a penalty. Brooks sustained slight concussion when his head met that of an Athletic defender as they jumped together.

Au Ping-ming opened the Athletic account and he rounded off a delightful movement for the second. Green reduced the lead, but saw it regained before the interval, when Ho Ka-keung beat McIlrady.

In the second half Willerton bundled Li Kwok-ki into the goal to register the Police second, but the issue was not beyond doubt when Au Kim-fung scored the winners' fourth.

On the Marina ground yesterday afternoon, in a fast friendly hockey fixture, the Incognitos defeated the Jats by five goals to nil. At the interval, the Incognitos led by 3-0. A. P. Sousa claimed three of the goals. J. M. Pinto and R. O. Reed netted one each.

UNFORTUNATE IRELAND

INJURIES CAUSE THEIR DEFEAT

SPURS TRIUMPH

(By "The Pilgrim").

An England success in the International match with Ireland; two London teams on top of the Senior League and the defeat of Clyde by the Rangers in the Glasgow Cup final, provided a full fare for football fans at Home on Saturday.

A crowd of 35,000 went to Belfast to see the Irishmen lose a gallant fight by three goals to nil. I say a gallant fight because for a considerable time they were without Priestley of Chelsea who twice had to be carried off. Martin, their leader, received an injury to the face and had to leave the field. An X-ray examination was carried out later.

Brook had put England ahead almost in the first minute of the game and with only nine men to stop them, England twice pierced the home defence, Grosvenor and Bowers scoring once each before Priestley returned after his first injury. The visitors were strong in defence and were never seriously menaced. They kept their one goal lead to half time and forged ahead after the resumption.

The match was one of the few blessed by fine weather. The superiority of Rangers over the Clyde Club in the League was reflected in their Cup Final engagement, the winners having a comparatively easy task. It is doubtful if they could have won by such a margin had the final been played last season. Rangers have maintained their 1932-3 form while the runners-up have sadly declined.

SPURS DO IT.

The most exciting fixture in the English League was the visit of the Spurs to Portsmouth. It was rather expected that Pompey would pull off a narrow victory although a toss of the coin would have been a reasonable guide to the result. The White Hart Lane club carried off the honours by a last minute solo goal by O'Callaghan, a magnificent conclusion to one of the keenest engagements of the season.

Playing without their star, the Irish Priestley, who had been released for the International game, Chelsea defeated Stamford Bridge supporters by twice netting in as many minutes and they were particularly unfortunate in failing to clinch the result with such a good opening. The lively placed Middlebro' were after points and they settled down to a grim and careful game which brought them the requisite three goals and two points. The recent advent of Newton has been powerfully reflected in the Reading club's last four or five fixtures. The collapse of Watford to the tune of six goals to one brought Reading's goals total to 20 for, and 11 against, which compares very satisfactorily with the adverse totals of 1 and 7—a month ago. Watford were unfortunate in conceding a last minute goal through an injury to their goalkeeper.

CREDIT TO ARSENAL.

Arsenal pulled off a creditable victory over Newcastle at Highbury where Nelson, captain of the visitors, made desperate but unsuccessful attempts to turn the tables.

Blackburn suffered a severe setback at the hands of Everton who registered a margin of six goals. West Bromwich Albion's performance in taking both points from Birmingham, ranked among the finest of the day.

MIXED DOUBLES

L. Goldman and Mrs. Lochner Win

L. Goldman and Mrs. Lochner holders in 1931 and favourites for the title this year, won their first round match in the Colony mixed doubles lawn tennis championship on Thursday, when they beat H. Owen Hughes and Miss H. Hancock 6-3, 6-0, on the U.S.R.C. courts.

Both Luton and Lincoln confirmed their recent disappointing form by losing at home whilst on the other hand West Ham United journeyed to Netts Forest to bag a brace.

Rotherham, wringing a point from New Brighton to add to their little pile whilst Chesterfield went merrily on to retain their leadership of the League by four points.

The invincible Motherwell's margin of five may be reduced as the Rangers visit to Third Lanark was postponed on account of the final. Another postponed match was that between Celtic and Clyde.

FLASHES FROM THE LOCAL SPORTS FIELDS

SATURDAY SOCCER BLUES: SOLDIER PARTISANSHIP: LESSONS FOR SHANGHAI L.B.A.: GOALS!

(By "Veritas").

THERE was some unexpected sorrowing and reloading in the various football camps on Saturday night. Those who mourned were the Borderers seniors, the two Navy teams and the Athletic, last year's champions of the second division. The celebrations were by the Lincolns, St. Joseph's, the Young Indians and the Borderers second string.

INCIDENTALLY quite a few 100 per cent. records went west, among them being those of the Borderers in the first division, the Athletic, Artillery, and Navy in the second, and South China in the third.

THE Lincolns, St. Joseph's, and South China in the first division, South China in the second, Borderers, Lincolns, and R.A.S.C. in the third are now the only remaining teams with clean sheets.

SCORING was well up to the average. A total of 71 goals resulted from the dozen games played on Saturday, 27 of which were recorded in the four second division matches, and another 20 in the five third division ties.

LEADING individual not-finders were: Take of the Lincolns second string (4) and three each for Higgins (Lincolns), Fowler (Club), Nelson (Borderers third string), and Botello (Recreation).

AN improvement in the state of the ground at Sookunpoo was noticeable. At least some sort of effort had been made to shorten the grass, but a little more attention in this direction will do no harm. There were patches where the ball was brought up almost dead, and there were one or two instances of players overrunning.

THERE was a refreshing display of partisanship at the Lincolns and Borderers clash. The more sensitive might resent the mild harassment awarded the players who kicked into the touch, the old cry of "Keep it on the island", and the counting out of the Borderers supporters by the delighted Lincolns followers. But when one appreciates the spirit in which the club, advice and expressions of opinion are exchanged, one realises that much of the glamour of the game is to be found in this display of partisanship.

IT was over the telephone on Saturday morning that I was told in a voice approaching resigned despair, that Kowloon second string were turning out half their seniors against the Club reserves that afternoon. Well it wasn't quite as bad as that. Kowloon contented themselves with playing Timberlake and Lewis who, under the league ruling were eligible for the game.

BUT the old adage that it takes more than one swallow to make a summer can be paraphrased to apply to football. Kowloon, even with the aid of two senior playing members, could not overcome the superior team play of the Club, who deservedly won.

LAWN BOWLS.

TOMMY Main arrived on the Police Green on Saturday afternoon clutching a black cat and smoking his favourite cheroot. That cat had its tail well up, and was not a bad symbol of the spirit shown by the Shanghai manager-captain.

THE arrangements made by the Police Recreation Club were perfect in every detail. Willing helpers laboured from 7 o'clock on Saturday morning to bring about such a satisfactory state of affairs, and both players and public can afford an appreciative "Thank You."

UP in Shanghai they had the impression that the visitors needed to win this Interport to make the scores level, but actually the position was reversed. Both Ports have now eight Interports to their credit, but as a result of the system of playing three matches, introduced in 1930, Hongkong have won 13 matches to Shanghai's eleven.

PERHAPS it is not Hongkong's business to advise the Shanghai L.B.A., what to do, but it is not to be expected that the Northern Association will misunderstand Mr. J. Russell's references to the value of selecting a separate team manager.

THE desirability of this procedure has been proved beyond doubt in other sports, and Hongkong, know from experience how wise a course it is.

IN fact I think the Northerners can gain a lot of valuable experience from the recent series. The selection of a team of ships might, in theory, suggest an unbeatable team. But as in all team games there are positions which day in his studio, with the wireless working all the time. He doesn't care what it is—beethoven or bee-keeping—so long as it is a noise, a companionable noise.

Yes, I am afraid we enjoy noise. It is very difficult. I am infuriated at night by the slamming of car doors, and I really do shut all taxi-doors quietly. But everybody who comes to the house just has a good slam (however late it is), and unless I go out with them when they leave and warn them they slam the door of their car or taxi again.

Seriously, I consider that the law ought to step in and stop some noises. Which? The motor-horn—I should say as personal preference—and the milk cart—and the speed-boat—and gramophones in punts—and early morning bells—and—But this is too dangerous.

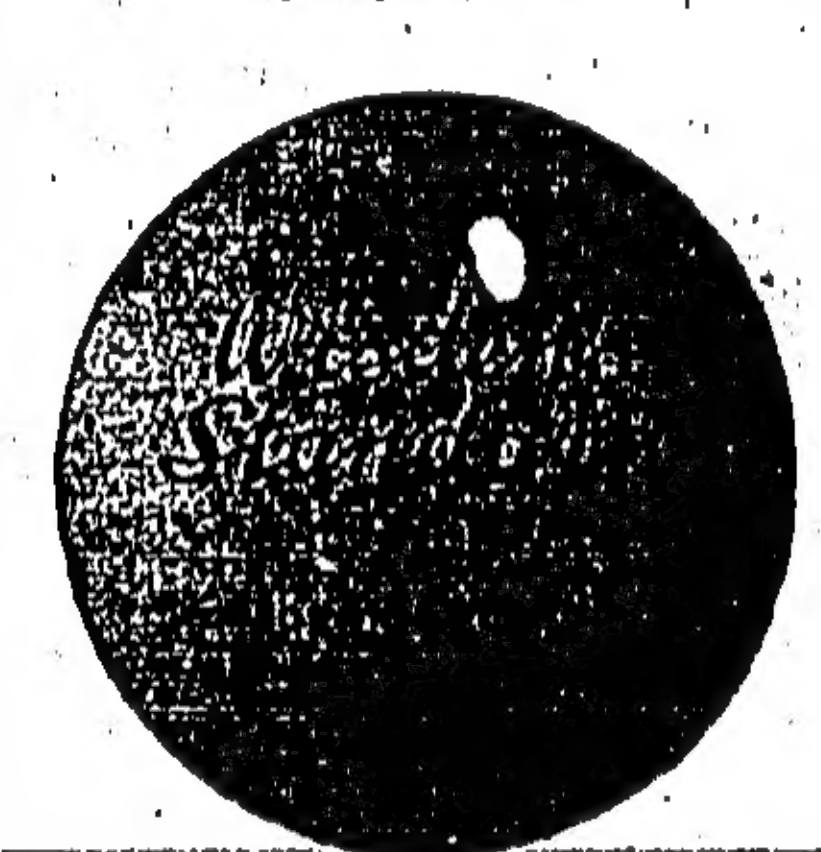

You go and make your own list.

MEDICINAL SYRUP

COMFORT FOR CHILDREN

For more than sixty years physicians have prescribed CASTORIA for children's common ailments. It regulates their sensitive systems by settling the stomach and gently stimulating the bowels.

Castoria tastes so good that children like to take it. It is a harmless, effective remedy for even the smallest infant. Mild and gentle in action. Castoria never gripes.

Buy a bottle today.

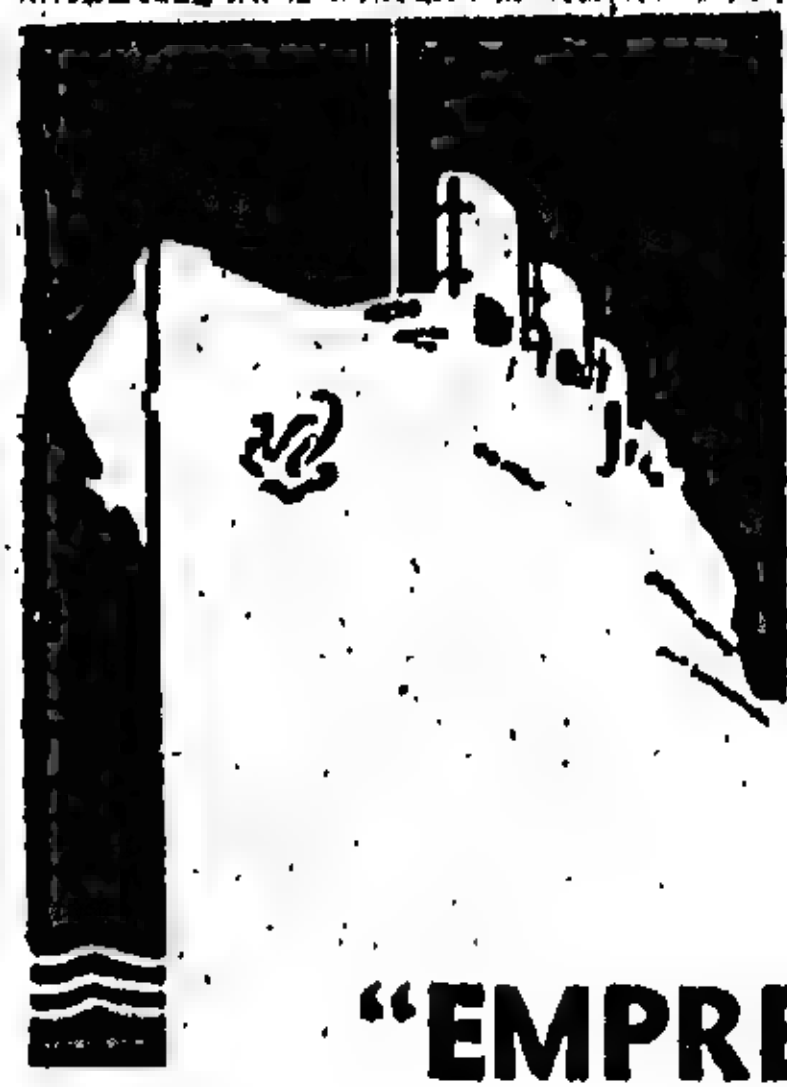

They change so fast, there should be a new picture at least once a year, for photographs of the children never grow up.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

In the bidding of a hand at contract we are always looking for the safety of the hand. There are also safety plays in the play of the hand. A good example of playing a hand safe is given in the following hand which came up in a recent tournament at Fort Wayne, Indiana.

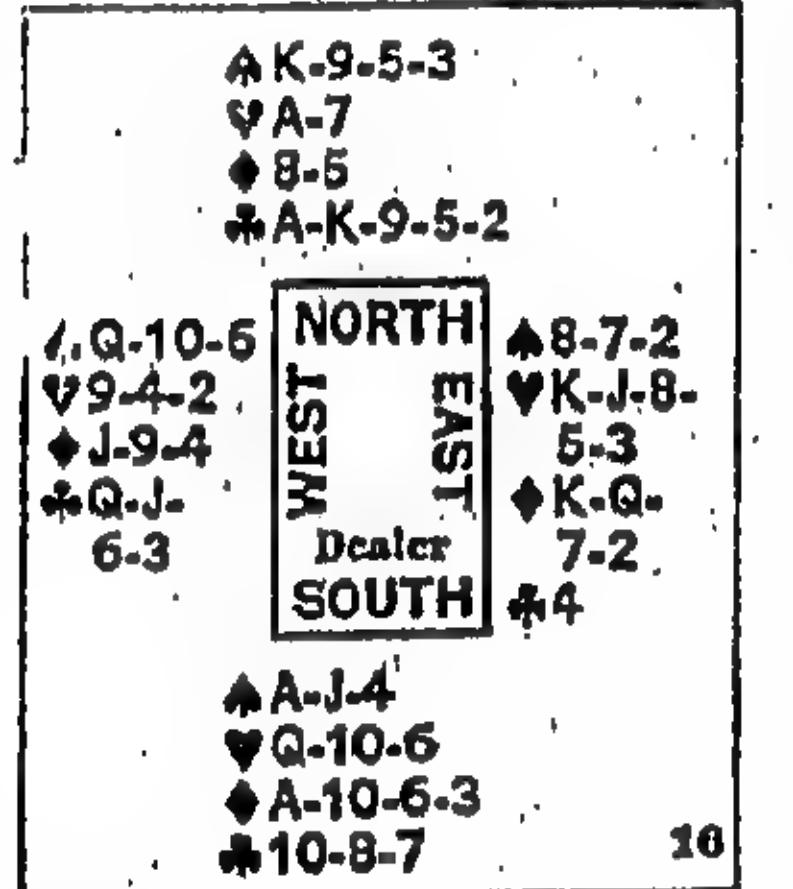

The Bidding.
South and West passed and North opened with one club. East overcalled with one heart. South bid one no trump. West passed and North bid two no trump. South went to three no trump.

The Play.
The opening lead was the nine of hearts, which East won with the king. He returned the five of hearts and the trick was won in dummy with the ace.

Some players might make the mistake now of trying to break the clubs by leading the ace and king, hoping they would split three-two—and then complain of hard luck if this play did not work. However, there is a safer way to play the hand.

You should assume that the two missing honours will be divided. Playing on this assumption, let us try to establish the club suit safely before control of the heart suit is knocked out.

The proper play is the ace of clubs from dummy, and then, a small club. On this club East will show out, playing the seven of diamonds. The declarer then plays his ten and West wins the trick with the jack. The declarer has a perfect tenace in dummy with the king-nine over West's queen-six of clubs.

East returns the deuce of hearts, which the declarer wins with the queen and then takes the club finesse. He runs the king and five of clubs, the ace of diamonds and the ace and king of spades for three no trump, while if he had tried to break the club suit by playing the ace and king, his contract would have been defeated.

FERRY HITS JUNK.

H.M.S. SUFFOLK AIDS IN EMERGENCY

Passengers going across the harbour from Hongkong on the Meridian Star at 7.25 p.m. yesterday, well alarmed when the ferry-launch struck a junk, No. 985, which was carrying a cargo of wood. The junk was just clearing the ferry-launch when the collision occurred.
Fortunately no-one was hurt aboard the junk, nor thrown overboard by the force of the impact. H.M.S. Suffolk, which was lying in midstream, threw a searchlight upon the scene, and sent a pinnace to see what help could be rendered. The Meridian Star towed the junk over to Kowloon badly damaged.

Serviceable New Autumn Costumes

Bicycling Costume, With Divided Skirt and Belted Jacket, Hits Novel Note

By Joan Savoy.

Select your autumn clothes right. You'll need several good looking and serviceable daytime outfits. And you'll need some workmanlike sports things. Top these with ultra feminine evening things and you are all set!

Since bicycling has come back with a bang, the chances are that you'll pedal your way to success. So get yourself one smart bicycle costume.

A serviceable one, chic as they come, is made of novelty sheer brown wool, divided skirt and belted jacket with pockets for this and that. Under the trig jacket is worn a necktie silk shirt, blue and white to give a new colour combination with dark brown. The model is in brown. But in Parisian manner, you draw on a handsome pair of green suede gloves, a matching green suede belt and tie, and you are all set.

YOUR CHILDREN

Avoid "Priming" A Child for School

By Olive Roberts Burton

"I'm glad Peggy is starting school," said her mother. "She's getting beyond me." "They soon straighten them out," agreed her friend. "I hope that you will like school, Peggy," Peggy said, "Yes'm" was corrected and tried to give a better answer. But her thoughts were not on manners. She was thinking about that "straightening out." What could it mean? What did they do to you there?

Classroom Fear.

She didn't want to be straightened out. She didn't want to go to school at all. She called school square. Everything square. Square books, square blackboards, square desks, square everything. Lines and rows and squares. She had visited school with Lois and when she came home she felt that she never wanted to go to that place again.

"So you're going to school this Autumn, Peggy?"

Everywhere she turned someone said that to her. And her mother would answer for her. "Yes, and I'm so glad. She is running wild and needs to be doing something. You know they make them walk the chalk line and the children turn into different people."

Lois added her bit. "When you go to school you can't do that. If you don't behave you'll catch it. You mustn't whisper. If you're dumb they'll put you in a back seat."

Already she was planning ways to defeat this great machine that was to catch and crush her.

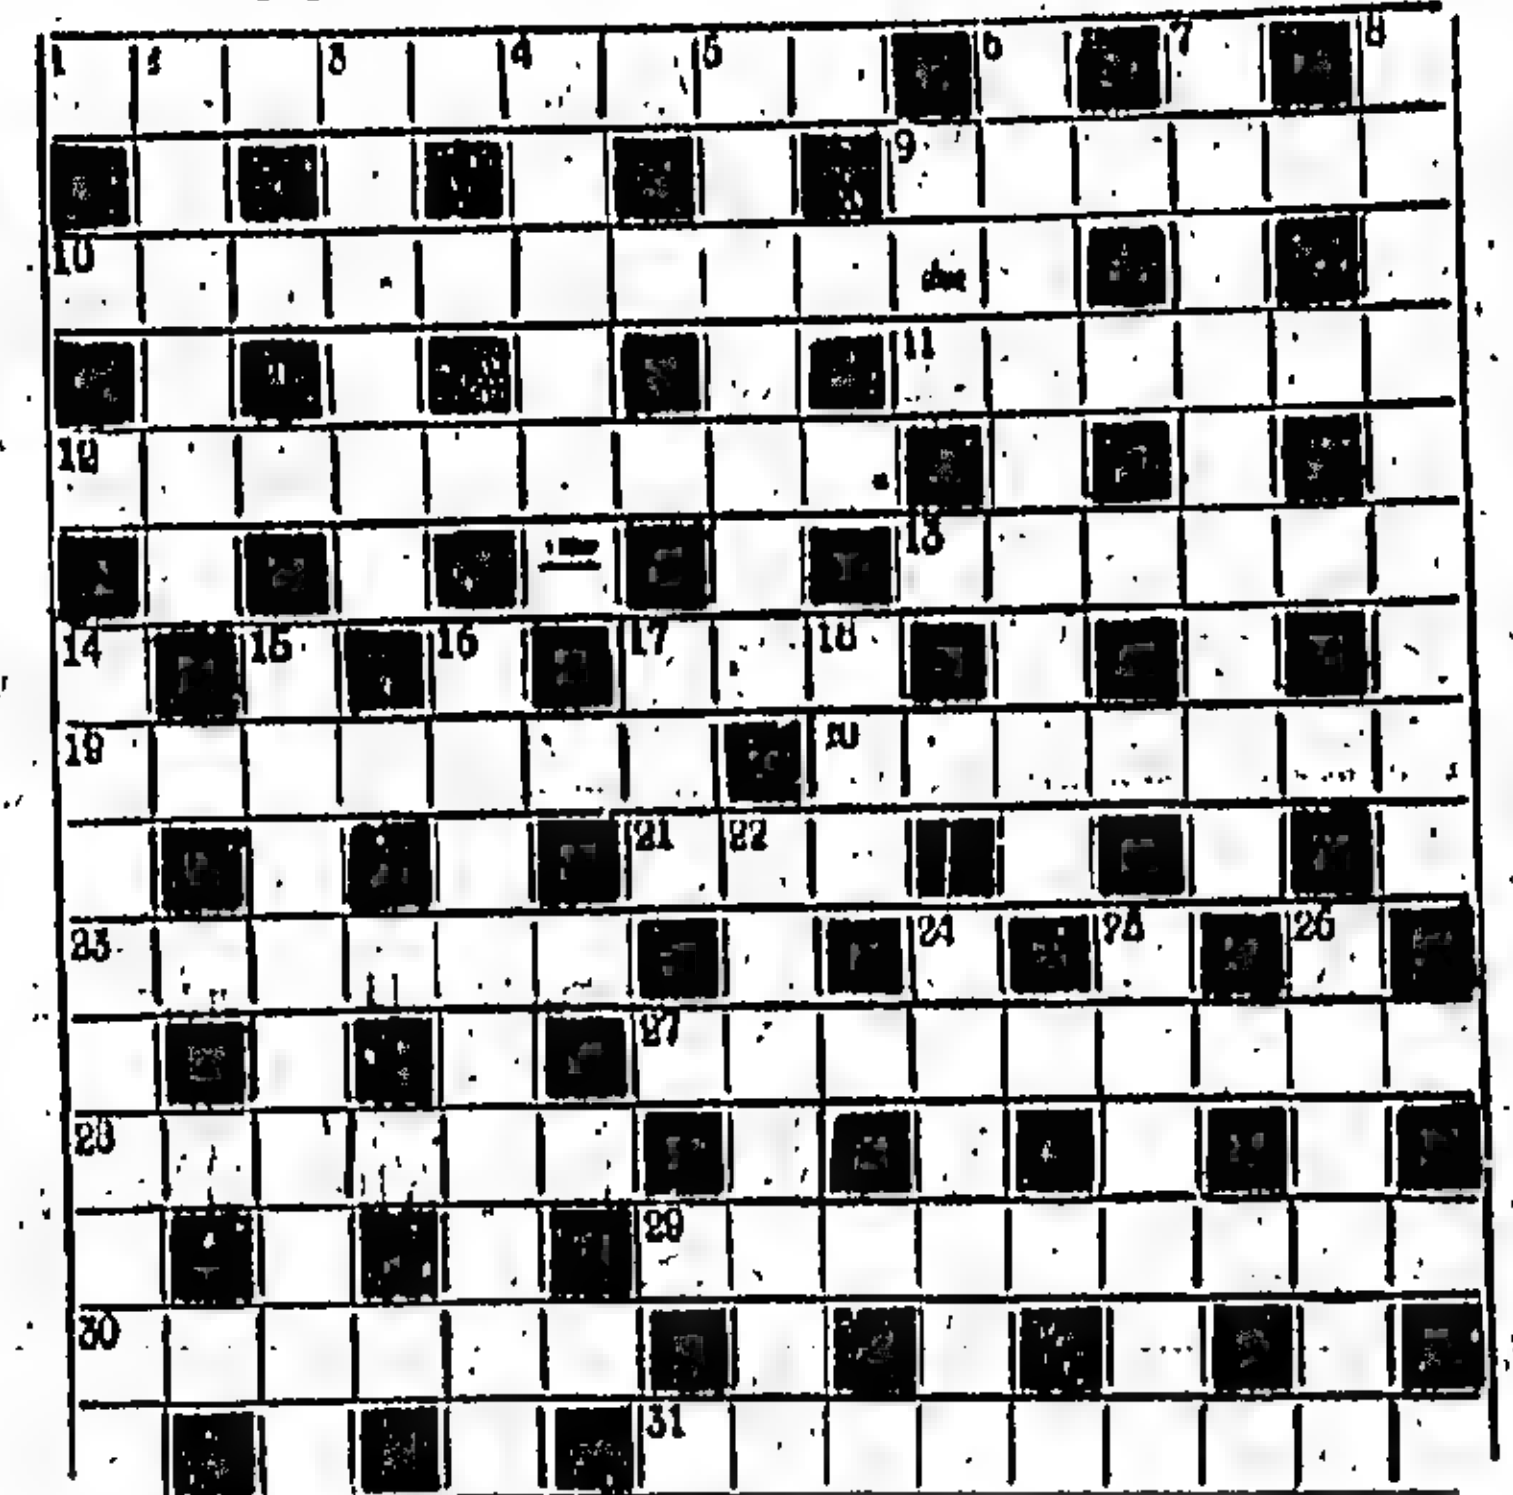

Another Attitude.

Up in the mountains a fine woman with clear eyes, not yet rested, was saying, "I must be getting home soon. School won't be long now. I dread this time of year. I always call it the frightening period. About half the children who start in have been talked at all summer until they are like nervous little rabbits. Either that or they are determined not to submit."

"I wish people wouldn't worry these babies before hand. Just let them take it for granted and let them walk in without a lot of priming. It takes no weeks to unscare them and assure them that they won't be eaten or beaten."

"Sometimes it's the other way and they are promised a Roman holiday just to get them there. That's almost as bad. The best way is to talk very little at all and act as though school were as natural as breakfast or the sun."

Sam's Misunderstood!

By Small

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

CHAPTER XLVIII.

It was the day of the May festival in Pine Forest. Eve awakened at dawn, with the first chimes of the church bells, and looked out of the window. Already lights were burning in the basement of the little white church at the Four Corner. She aroused Dick.

"Bright May day now is dawning o'er us!" She sang the words of a song she had learned in grade school.

They went to breakfast in the church that morning in accordance with a custom brought from New England by the first settlers of Pine Forest. Breakfast was served from five o'clock until nine, and although Eve and Dick were among the first to arrive they had company. The owner of the general store sat at their table and the general manager of the paper mill was next to Dick. Opposite sat the village tailor, polite and attentive.

The men discussed business conditions. Before Eve had finished the delicious pancakes served with new maple sirup a group of teachers came in.

"After breakfast we are going up into the woods for May flowers," they told her and invited Eve to join them. But she declined, although she was touched by their thoughtfulness.

This day she had set aside to spend with Dick. Soon she would be leaving and she wanted to make the most of the short time remaining. They lingered over their coffee and then left the church. In the tall white steeple the chimes were ringing again. A sense of peace seemed to surround them. Eve slipped her arm through Dick's and as they strolled past the wide lawn on Main street they watched the sun, red-gold, come up over the top of Eagle Hill. Birds were twittering in the tree tops and in Mrs. Williams' garden the pink flowering almond was blooming, flanked by yellow forsythia.

That morning Eve rode out to the camp with Dick. The hospital buildings loomed up attractively in that vast wooded area. Dick took Eve on a tour of inspection and she felt an increased respect for the powers that were bringing into being this great institution of healing. By midsummer the hospital was to be opened. Dick, however, would remain there to begin work on more buildings to be added to the unit. That meant that in all likelihood he would spend another year at Pine Forest.

Another long year without Dick! Another year of such loneliness as she had known for the last eight months. Her mother's words came back to her, "You're not being fair to your husband!"

Eve drove the roadster slowly over the four-mile stretch back to the village. She felt the charm of the countryside and longed to relax and become a part of it. Yet she felt another urge which drew her away into the turmoil of life in Lake City.

She stopped at the little post office and found a letter from Arlene.

"Eve, dear, we are married," wrote Arlene. "Sam and I both dreaded the fuss and excitement of a wedding so we just slipped away and were married at Saint James' church last Saturday. Sam's brother and my cousin were the witnesses.

"We drove to Niagara Falls for our honeymoon. Well—why not Niagara Falls? My parents and their parents, too, went to Niagara Falls for their honeymoons. Anyhow Sam wasn't in a hurry to get back so we didn't return until Tuesday night. We're staying with my parents until we find a place of our own."

"Sam refused to let me go to the office Wednesday and I'm not going back at all! I called Mr. Barnes to tell him I was married and he was very sweet about it. I guess he thinks well of Sam."

"We're looking for a house now. We want a little white one with green blinds and a wide red chimney out in one of the suburbs. Sam says he is tired of apartments and for years he's been ambitious to have a rose garden."

Eve sat still for a long while after she read Arlene's letter. She was experiencing a conflict of emotions and her mind was torn with indecision. She was glad for Arlene—glad that her friend was so happy, and yet she envied that happiness. Because of her own overwhelming ambition, Eve realized, she was thrusting aside the joy that might belong to her and her husband.

And what confusion there must be with both Arlene and herself absent from the office. Eve felt she should go back immediately. She turned the car about and drove in the direction of the little lake where Dick had taken her that first Sunday. High up in the hills she stopped and walked through the woods, kicking up pine needles as she went. When she came to the edge where she could look down at the ground and gave herself up to enjoying the golden sunshine.

Here, with the fragrance of the pines carried by the gentle spring breeze, it was easier to think. Eve felt able to take a detached view of her problems and analyze them impersonally.

After a long while she arose and with one hand brushed back her honey-coloured hair. There was a shining light in her amber eyes and her firm little chin was held high. With determination in her step she returned to the car and drove back to the village.

She wrote three letters but did not mail them, then drove to the camp again for Dick. While she sat in the roadster waiting for him doubts once more assailed her. Did Dick really want her to go back to Lake City or would he rather have her stay here? He had told others as well as Aunt Sophronia that Eve was returning at the end of two weeks. And he had said it in a voice so certain that it left no cause for doubt. Surely if he wanted her to stay he would have implied it in some way!

But Dick looked so genuinely glad to find her waiting for him that Eve felt a responsible glow of pleasure as their eyes met.

"Love me a little!" Eve asked wistfully as they drove over the hill.

"Love you—oh, the least little bit!" he teased, smiling.

After dinner Eve asked him to read the letters she had addressed to Mr. Bixby, Mr. Barnes and to Arlene and Sam. The letter to Mr.

Bixby contained her resignation and suggested that he consider Sam for the vacancy. Sam Holmridge, she wrote, was in her estimation better qualified to take charge of Bixby's advertising than any other person in Lake City. The letter to Arlene and Sam suggested immediate application for the job.

Dick was amazed as he looked up from the page he had been reading.

"But are you sure," he asked, "that I haven't influenced you to do this, Eve?"

"No, you didn't influence me. You didn't even encourage me to stay here," Eve told him frankly. "I've thought the whole thing out, Dick. I had the satisfaction of reaching the goal I had set for myself. You and I and a few others know I could have become advertising manager of the store. I don't think anyone else would have been much interested. Staying in Lake City would have meant realizing that ambition but if realizing it had to mean losing you—oh, Dick, we came so close to losing each other!"

"No, we didn't," he assured her emphatically. "I wanted you to work out your problem in your own way. I've never believed in forcing anyone into decisions. But I was willing to wait. I thought that if you cared enough for me you'd come to me in time."

"Cared for you?" echoed Eve.

"Are you sure, darling, that you will be contented here?" he asked.

And Eve answered firmly, "Yes. Something had to be sacrificed and it couldn't be you!"

Dick took her in his arms.

GRAPHIC PICTURES OF THE CUBAN RIOTS

PAÑIA AVICOL

Here are series of graphic pictures of the Cuban riots. Above shows how, with the police disarmed, and soldiers refusing to interfere, orgy of looting and destruction swept the Cuban capital after the announcement of President Machado's downfall.

Almost as the camera clicked, the machine guns of presidential palace guards opened death-dealing fire upon this throng which had gathered in Havana streets to celebrate a false report that President Machado had resigned. Twenty-five were killed, more than 100 wounded. Members of the crowd ran in all directions to escape the spray of bullets.

As word swept over the embattled city of Havana that the regime of President Gerardo Machado was at an end, thousands of joyful celebrants swept into the presidential palace to loot and destroy. The result of the mob's frenzy is strikingly pictured above. Windows and doors were smashed, rich furnishings pulled down and carried away; state papers and records tossed into the court in a littered mass. Here you see members of the mob searching the debris, and others carrying loot from the palace.

Crimson pools in a side street of Havana give mute testimony to the sanguinary massacre that occurred near the Presidential Palace, when guards fired on demonstrators. Here natives stand in awe-stricken silence at the spot where several of their countrymen fell.

WAR CLOUDS GATHER IN THE NORTH

Harbin, Oct. 14. — Trains laden with Soviet troops are being rushed to the frontier regions of Western and Eastern Siberia, according to foreign travellers from Europe, who assert that troop-trains overtook them at regular intervals of 45 minutes.

At the same time, Manchukuo is reported to be concentrating troops at Hailar. Meanwhile, the Soviet Consul-General here has lodged a fifth protest against the detention of the Chinese Eastern Railway officials, but the demand for their release is being ignored by Manchukuo.

Commerce and trade in Harbin continues to remain at a standstill. — Reuter.

JAPANESE RECRUITING.

Formation of Large Mongolian Cavalry Division.

Nanking, Oct. 11. — The Central Daily News gives prominence to a report from Mongolian sources to the effect that the Kwantung Army has been instructed to organise a force of 30,000 Mongolian cavalry within two years.

It is stated that Japanese recruiting agents have been sent out but that there has been little response to their efforts.

The paper finally alleges that the projected force is intended for use against the Soviet. — Reuter.

LONDON OBSERVER.

Significant Activity In Russo-Japanese Crisis.

London, Oct. 15. — There is no mistaking the seriousness of the Russo-Japanese phase of the Far Eastern disturbance, says the Observer to-day. "The haggling over the price of the Chinese Eastern Railway is merely the occasion, not the whole cause of the discussion," the newspaper adds. "It does not matter that the League of Nations competence does not extend either to Russia or Japan, for Western Europe, where theoretically it does exist, is in a bad state."

It is probably no accident, the Observer says significantly, that Moscow is assiduously courting the goodwill of Warsaw and Paris. — Reuter.

GERMANY'S BLUNDER

To the rest of his topsy-turvy achievements in the foreign field, Herr Hitler has added the colossal blunder of withdrawal from the League of Nations and from the Disarmament Conference. It might have been an occasion for the gravest anxiety; it still provides a situation demanding the highest qualities in world statesmen; but the worst danger has already been surmounted. The solidarity of the English-speaking peoples has been stated as plainly as it could be, forming with France and Italy a powerful combination for the preservation of peace. The United States stands firmly with its Great War allies in opposition to Germany's rearmament and Herr Hitler's bluff, if bluff it was, has been called. As a dramatic gesture, it has an effect, but bombast has missed its main mark. Like so many other actions designed by the Nazi leader to further Germany's aims, the result has merely been to consolidate the powers of resistance, to bring them more closely together. Instead of placatory appeals, which it is fair to suspect were anticipated in Berlin, the United States, Britain and France, with Italy hardly less strong in support, find themselves in a clearer atmosphere, knowing exactly what they have to face and prepared to meet it. Herr Hitler, in announcing the decision, made a moderately toned speech contrasting astonishingly with the futility and tragedy of the action inspiring it, urging a claim to a sincere desire for peace, to justify an action which is bound to cramp the resources of practical statesmanship in the quest for a solution of Europe's problems. Instead of assisting. Nothing could show more clearly the shortness of the Nazi vision. For if the complete severance of relations with Geneva is not an example of the childish petulance of the frustrated, then Germany's protestations are insincere and prohibition of rearmament in any form becomes the more essential in the interests of peace. As to the immediate future, there seems little that can be done. The Disarmament Conference is effectively torpedoed; an effort must be made to prevent it from going under completely, to preserve at least the shell until reason is restored. Time is likely to prove the most successful healer, provided Germany does not cut loose in other directions.

NOTES OF THE DAY

FAR EAST CRISIS

The situation in the Far East is of more immediate concern than the crisis in Europe. Trouble may be brewing in the West but there is plenty of time in which to discover ways to restore confidence. There is not a moment to spare if the conflict is to be avoided over the Chinese Eastern Railway. The outlook is none the less ominous because the intervals between the barking of the dogs over this bone of contention have become wider. It calls, rather, for a keener watch. Events have been moving rapidly towards the stage where vocal outbursts cease to have value or influence. And neither Soviet Russia nor Japan have been slow to realise it. With tension clearly on the verge of breaking-point, we look in vain for any means by which it may be eased off without causing an upheaval. On the contrary, circumstances accounts of military preparations are frequent, further electrifying the atmosphere.

HOW SOON?

We are prepared to believe that both Soviet Russia and Japan would welcome an opportunity to draw back if it could be done without loss of prestige. That is the essence of the crisis. Eliminate the question of national honour and a compromise might be possible. But can it be eliminated? Japan (or Manchukuo) is heavily committed to drastic curtailment of the rights of control exercised in the railway by the Soviet. Any modification of this policy would be interpreted as a Soviet triumph and the Japanese General Staff are in no mood for such an interpretation. Russia's position is vastly different. Japan has been encroaching upon her preserves to an extent which must seem to Moscow to demand the calling of a halt. She calls it before it involves defence of her own territories. The alternative is to sink away and submit to every dictate of Japan's Empire-builders, to sacrifice any influence remaining to her in the East. If the situation is thus correctly analysed there remains little room to be said. For either party, it is give way or fight. Only one question remains. How soon?

THE BUS WAR

The Colony's own little war, the community v. the bus services, is also making progress. Residents of Kowloon Tong have summoned the Kowloon Bus Company with the result that fines have been imposed. There would be more of such prosecutions if private individuals had the time to spare to make appearances in Court.

ADEQUATE WARNING

The present is hardly the proper time to harass the bus companies. An adequate warning has been given. No immediate improvement can fairly be expected and a spate of prosecutions because an example has been set would savour of vindictiveness. If observation reveals anything, the Monopolists have enough serious problems on their hands without being subjected to what could easily become, in the circumstances, persecution. The fact is, or seems to be, that the companies at the moment could not live up to the terms of the Contract if they tried. The public must bear with them for a while. More damage, wear and tear, has been done to the vehicles in service during the four months of the new franchise than in twelve months of ordinary handling. But the companies seem to possess neither efficient drivers nor an adequate technical staff. Experience suggests that if the inexperienced drivers employed feel that an engine is not behaving properly, they run it to a standstill and accentuate the trouble.

THE REMEDIES

Only a radical reorganisation can set things right. The causes of complaint will not respond to patch-work. We doubt if it is at all possible to bring the various services up to the required standard without the importation of a fleet of new buses to be employed in conjunction with the best of the old. This is true of both sides of the harbour, although it refers particularly to Kowloon. After that, unless the service is to degenerate once again, it will be necessary to ensure that the drivers employed are capable of handling the vehicles without tearing their "innards" to pieces. These things cannot appear in a moment; the public can only expect, for some time, that the companies will do their best with their present equipment. And one contribution to happier conditions would be action to convince employees that discourtesy and blackness are not part and parcel of the elimination of competition.

NOISES I WOULD LIKE TO SEE STOPPED

A. P. HERBERT

A DREADFUL cat has been let out of the bag. A man who makes silencers for motor-cars has revealed that the young people who drive about in high-powered "sports" cars buy fewer and fewer silencers: they demand "partial" silencers and prefer no silencer at all—for the "crackle" of the exhaust makes them think they are speed kings, and they love it. They enjoy noise.

All of us complain that there is too much noise; yet most of us must confess that there are noises we enjoy, and if all noises were miraculously eliminated the world would certainly be a dismal place. Half the fun of Niagara is its noise.

The question is: What noises are redundant? And the answer is: The other fellow's noises.

I love the sound of church bells floating across the Sussex Downs about cocktail-time. But I cannot bear the church bells at 7 a.m., though they are a delight to many. I love most of the characteristic sounds of the water traffic—the steady clinkety-clink of a sailing barge's windlass getting up the anchor in the early morning, the rattle of the blocks as the topsl goes up, the far-off twitter-tutter of a power-boat on the canal, the metallic clatter of the locks as the boatmen drop the "paddles," the roar of water as the lock begins to fill; even the sometimes unnecessary noisy noise of a tug's or steamer's siren booming in the heart of London.

But on land the noise of vehicles is odious to me. Motor-horns madden me; I loathe loud exhausts, the rumbling lorry, the crunching gears, the engine blowing off steam.

I like, I think, the sound of a horse's hoofs, but not its neigh or whinny, or whatever it is. And on cobblestones cartwheels are an agony.

My neighbours dislike me if I stay up late and sing. I dislike them if they get up early and whistle joyously in the street. Other people's strumming on the piano can be tiresome, but how I enjoy my own!

The poets and others love the morning anthem of the birds: so should I if I could sleep through it.

Some are enraged by the evening of alcoholic revellers. I much prefer that to the morning noises of the worthy milkman bringing life and health to mothers and babies.

He, too, is one of these hearty whistlers—at 5 or 6 o'clock in the morning. Nobody says anything, because he is bringing milk; and because he is up early and working he thinks he is entitled to whistle and wake me up.

Well, I sit up till one in the morning working. But if I then go out in the street and whistle joyously, I shall get, at least, nasty letters.

Milk leads to tea. The literary men write lovingly of the kettle singing in the hob. An elderly lady has told me that the noise that maddens her most is a singing kettle. She would rather sit in the middle of a brass band. Where are we?

But poets and literary men are always praising noises—the click of bat on ball, the school lawnmower, the charming prattle of children (O dear!), the blacksmith's hammer (Golly!), the lowing herd (Morey!), the "crack" of the rifle, the "cry" of the hound, the bent of the drum, the wind in the trees, the bleating of lambs, the plash of fountains.

Yes, there is no doubt that we do like noise. If one of those electric drills came to my street I should emigrate, but crowds of people stand round and enjoy them, and my boy would rather have ten minutes of an electric drill than ten minutes of Caruso.

For all I know there may be those who enjoy a good snuff, or the crackling of chocolate-paper at a matinee, or the man who goes to a first night with a cough as regular as a pumping engine, or the ship's siren in a fog.

Then, of course, the Voice of the Beloved is generally supposed to be a good thing. But put thirty women together in a room at a cocktail party—all somebody's Beloveds—and I would willingly swap them for an electric drill.

Nearly all the material things which distinguish this age from the last are things which make or communicate more noise than there was before—the telephone, the typewriter, the gramophone, the wireless, the car, the aeroplane, the steam-plough, the motor-lorry, the typewriter, the high explosive, the saxophone, extension lectures, cocktail parties, restaurant bands, and international conferences. An alarming list. No wonder the world grows madder.

And now they want to bust the Atom—good and hard!

What is the most precious of our political liberties? Free speech, which means free political speech—the dearest form of noise there is. But some love it. Very soon we shall be talking of our inalienable right to make a noise.

The noisy bath is one of my bug-bears. The moment he is in the water he has to shout and scream. The happy lads of Ham-mersmith are a sore trial to me some summer days. But when my son goes in the river he is just as loud, except that I can stop him.

A young couple glide up in a punt, very much in love. They come to a quiet corner of the river. They have the whole world to themselves and the whole of life to discuss. And they go and turn on the gramophone because they would feel embarrassed without it.

The jazz bands we like best are undoubtedly those which make most noise. We used to have nice quiet cinemas; but then they brought in music and afterwards "sound."

We used to be able to sleep during after-dinner speeches; now there are loud-speakers all over the room. We can't enjoy our food in a restaurant unless a band is playing or somebody sings.

A theatre audience must never be left in silence for an instant between scenes; the band must play from curtain-fall to curtain-rise; and if the music runs out they must play the same piece again.

Now we have to have wireless in our cars lest silence, like a pestilence, should fall upon the roads.

I know an artist who works all

The Very Idea!

CONGRATULATIONS

By Eddie "Shakespeare" Kelly, Barred.

WHEN we arrived in the office on Saturday the first thing that caught our eye was the disorder in the general office on the ground floor.

Then, when we reached our desk, we found the reason. We'd forgotten all about our birthday announcement on Friday.

After about three hours we were able to sort the flood of congratulatory cables, letters and chits into some semblance of order.

We have picked out a dozen or so at random to fill in the column to-day.

Mr. J. H. Taggart, Managing Director of the Hongkong and Shanghai Hotels Ltd., enthusiastically wrote as follows: Mr. E. Kelly, Hongkong Telegraph.

Sir—The announcement in Friday's issue of the Telegraph that you conceived the Very Idea twelve months ago reminds us that your account with our Company is overdue for a like period. We would appreciate an immediate settlement. Yours patient-ly.

But wait till you read this cable we got from London.

Another cable speaks for itself:

EDWARD KELLY HONGKONG.—CONGRATULATIONS MAY I HAVE YOUR AUTOGRAPH.—GEORGE BERNARD SHAW.

But we regret to say that all the cables and letters have not been congratulatory. For instance, Major Cassel wrote us as follows:

Dear Edward Kelly—In the last issue of the Critic I inadvertently wrote an account of your death. Please accept my apologies. I am sorry this is not correct.

There is rage as well as terror in a cabled appeal we received from Herr Hitler, of Germany:

There are several other letters we could print, but the Editor won't let us. He says the Telegraph is a respectable newspaper.

"VENGEANCE IS MINE"

The girl ran her slender fingers up and down the lapels of his dinner-jacket.

"You must go now," she sighed, "before my husband returns."

She swung round suddenly.

"Hell!" she gasped. "He's coming now."

Ralph turned pale.

"He will find us. He will guess everything," he muttered distractedly.

The footstep came nearer.

"Quick! Quick! You must hide," she urged frantically.

But it was too late. The doorway framed a vengeful figure, automatic in hand.

The automatic spoke.

Thud!

A crimson stream widened into a pool beneath the still form which had been Ralph Grayson.

"Godd! You've killed him," Joan gasped, weakly.

For the figure slumped, crumpled, and slid in a scenclose heap, to the carpet.

"Peanuts or lollipops?" wailed a plaintive voice, as the lights went up.

"I'm afraid she's getting serious. Her parents have started looking me over."

BIG CANTON DRIVE AGAINST PIRACY GANGS

BIAS BAY OPERATIONS

EXTENSIVE CAMPAIGN
NEARING ENDMANY PRISONERS TAKEN

The Telegraph learns that a big military drive has been undertaken by the military authorities of Kwangtung against the horde of pirates who have their stronghold in the region of Bias Bay.

From all accounts, the campaign appears to have been on an unprecedented scale, extending from Wai Yeung, on the northernmost limits, right down to Chungshan, touching the British border of the New Territories at a number of points.

One of the first results of the operations was the release of the captives taken in the piracy of the China Merchants s.s. Yushun, which was seized by pirates some short time ago while on a voyage from Swatow.

The number of prisoners taken by the Chinese military in the course of the operations is not yet known.

NATURAL DEVELOPMENT.

There is every reason to believe that the action has crystallised in the course of a few months regarding the movements of the pirates, and the opening of what was intended to be another season for operations against China coastal boats from the notorious region. When three different parties left the region for different points recently, and one was known to have afterwards been implicated in the piracy of the s.s. Yushun from Swatow, the position simply invited official attention, and Chinese military action has been the result.

It appears from facts only just brought to light, that the s.s. Prosper trading from Hongkong, had a narrow escape from being boarded by pirates here. Plans however miscarried, and the day after the steamer had left this port, the Hongkong Police took action, this resulting in the arrests of a large number of suspects at Shauiwan.

In connection with the local development, it will be recalled that an important discovery was at the same time made in the finding of a bucket with a false bottom in which were concealed two revolvers obviously intended to be smuggled on board.

Bookkeeping Puzzle

(To the Editor,
Hongkong Telegraph.)

Sir,—I am puzzled about accounts kept by a former book-keeper and would be grateful if an expert in book-keeping would give me the value of his advice.

Two accounts are involved: (a) debits "Louis" with £50. It is dated July 13, 1928, and there is no sign of a transfer.

(b) on another page entirely, debits "Louis" with £20 on March 14, 1929, and with £20 on September 2, 1929, adding at foot: Balance due, £30.

Here I am in doubt as to whether the £50 in (a) is the same as the £50 in (b) or not. I am not well acquainted with English book-keeping methods and would appreciate advice. If one of your readers could help me, would he please write to No. 83, Connaught Road Central.

Miss Skinner.—It is my privilege to-day to invest you with the insignia of a Member of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire which was conferred upon you by the King on the occasion of His Majesty's birthday last year in recognition of your educational services in this Colony.

You were appointed to the Service in May 1914 and up to the year 1921 acted as Assistant Mistress at the Peak School and Queen's College, being temporarily in charge of the former during 1915. You were in charge of Kowloon Junior School from 1921 till your appointment as Headmistress of Bellios Public School in September 1924, which appointment you still hold.

During the last ten years there has been a remarkable intellectual movement amongst the women of the East which has brought into being many new institutions for the education of girls and necessitated changes in institutions already existing. Your term as Headmistress of Bellios, the largest school for girls in Hongkong, has coincided with a period of transition, and it is under your guiding hand that the school has developed into the rational institution of to-day with its larger opportunities for the girls who have been fortunate enough to pass through your hands. The Bellios' girls of to-day can take her place alongside her brother in the educational scheme of the Colony, and she owes this to you. I understand that you propose to retire next year and this will mean a great loss to this Colony.

You have done very fine work and have thoroughly earned this Honour on the conferment of which I offer you my sincere congratulations.

SHANGHAI "WAR"

Lieut. Young was supported by Col. W. H. J. Bilderbeck, O.B.E., and Col. L. C. Lewis. The Grant read, His Excellency said: Frederick Walter Young.—It is a great pleasure to me to-day to invest you with the insignia of a Member of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, Military Division, which was conferred upon you by the King on the occasion of His Majesty's recent birthday, in recognition of valuable services rendered by you in Shanghai last year during the Sino-Japanese trouble.

You made a brilliant start in your military career passing first out of Sandhurst in July, 1919, and being awarded The King's Medal and a sword. You were gazetted at once to The Lincolnshire Regiment. You were Assistant Adjutant of the 1st Battalion from 1920 to 1923 and were appointed Adjutant in 1931, which position you still hold. You moved with the Battalion to Shanghai in October, 1931, and were stationed there during the troubles in the early months of 1932. You rendered conspicuous good service. Your energy, tact and devotion to duty throughout the whole of that trying period materially assisted in the smooth working of all the duties of our own troops and those of foreign troops with whom your work was connected.

I am very glad that your services have received this recognition and I offer you my sincere congratulations.

PUBLIC-SPIRITED CHINESE.

Hon. Mr. D. W. Tratman, C.M.G., and Hon. Mr. A. E. Wood were supporters to Mr. Li Yik-mui and Mr. Tam Wun-tong.

His Excellency made eulogistic references to their work and said: Mr. Li Yik-mui and Mr. Tam Wun-

"I have great pleasure in presenting to you to-day, in the name of His Majesty the King, the Certificates of Honour which were awarded to you by me in His Majesty's name on the King's birthday last June.

Certificates of Honour are given in recognition of loyal and valuable services rendered to the Colony and to the British Government. The number is limited and therefore selection for them constitutes a distinct honour.

I need hardly say that you have both fully earned this honour. You have performed great public service over a number of years in various capacities. You have both been Justices of the Peace for a considerable period. You have both held the post of Chairman of the Po Leung Kuk Committee and Tung Wah Hospital Committee.

You, Mr. Li Yik-mui, are a member of the permanent Board of Directors of the Po Leung Kuk and of the District Watch Committee. You were Chairman of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce for two years and Vice-Chairman for a like period. You are also a member of the Court of the Hongkong University and of the Chinese Permanent Cemeteries Committee. I should like to pay a special tribute to the work which you did as a voluntary press censor in 1925. This work was of great value and was carried out by you very efficiently in spite of danger incurred thereby.

You, Mr. Tam Wun-tong have not only been associated closely with the Tung Wah Eastern Hospital but also with the new Po Leung Kuk building. The raising of funds for this new building and its final successful completion were largely due to your efforts, and in this connection I should also like to pay a tribute to Mrs. Tam Wun-tong for her most valuable help in connection with this home.

On behalf of the Government and the Colony, I thank you both for the very great services which you have rendered and congratulate you on the honour which you have received.

AMBULANCE WORKER.

Presenting Mr. Morris with the insignia of an Officer (Brother) of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, His Excellency said: Alfred Morris. It is a very great pleasure to me to present to you to-day, on behalf of His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, Grand Prior, and the Chapter General of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, the insignia of an Officer (Brother) of the Order.

You have been connected with the Brigade in this Colony for many years. You were appointed in 1916 to be Sergeant of the Ho Koi Tong Ambulance Division, Kowloon, and in 1917 and 1918 were appointed successively Ambulance Officer and Divisional Superintendent of that Division. You were appointed Corps Superintendent, Hongkong and China District in 1920 and received the Long Service Medal in 1927. You were appointed Serving Brother of the Order in 1928, and made Assistant Commissioner, Hongkong District in 1930, being promoted to be Commissioner in 1933.

Various appointments and promotions have been made in the Order in this Colony, but I know of none that has been better earned than the Honour which has just been conferred upon you. The Brigade has achieved considerable success in this Colony, largely due to your keenness and energy which have made the Brigade the living force in Hongkong which it is to-day. I wish especially to express my great admiration of the work which you have done in the New Territories. People there owe a great debt to you and those under you for all that you have done for their health and safety.

I understand that even after your retirement from Government Service you intend to remain here and carry on the good work for the Brigade which you have been doing in the past. The Colony will be fortunate if you carry out this intention.

On behalf of both the Colony and the Government, I thank you very sincerely for your good service and congratulate you on the recognition which it has received. Dr. W. B. Moore and Mr. Ho Kom-tong were supporters to Mr. Morris.

ARAB PROTEST AGAINST THE INFUX OF JEWS

Jerusalem, Oct. 14. Tin-helmeted British and other police, armed with batons, are patrolling the streets and apparently present disquiet enough to prevent any serious disorder arising from the Arab mass demonstration against the recent increase in Jewish immigration which was planned for to-day.

Minor affrays occurred, resulting in arrests and a few slight casualties.

The Arabs have called a general strike, and all Arab shops are closed.—Reuter.

SCHOOLGIRL TEAM FOR CAER CLARK CUP

CEN. BRITISH SCHOOL TO TAKE PART

MISS H. KNILL TO PLAY

SEVEN POSITIONS FILLED

LOCAL HOCKEY INNOVATION

(By "Veritas").

For the first time in the history of the local game, schoolgirls will this year take part in competitive hockey.

Miss H. Knill, sports mistress at the Central British School this morning revealed that the C.B.S. is entering a team for the Caer Clark Cup.

With the exception of Miss Knill and another mistress, the team will be composed of C.B.S. pupils.

"We made a start at hockey last year," said Miss Knill, "and for the most part our players are comparative beginners. But we are practising hard, and although I cannot indicate with any certainty what standard we shall attain, I am particularly anxious that the girls shall have the experience of senior hockey and for that reason we are entering a team for the Caer Clark Cup this winter."

SOME OF THE PLAYERS.

Miss Knill, whose bold move is bound to do much to raise the standard of hockey in Hongkong, has not yet completed the team, but can point to seven certainties. They are:

J. Bryson (right back)
R. Ingram (left back)
J. Holland (centre-half)
M. McCaw (right half)
M. Marsh (right wing)
L. Hickley (right inner)
Miss H. Knill (centre-forward).

From these players Miss Knill is looking forward to supplying the nucleus of a useful team. With herself and Miss Marsh in the forward line, defences will certainly be kept busy.

INTENSIVE PRACTICE.

Practice matches are now being indulged in almost daily, and the team will take part in its first serious game to-day week, when the Central British Association will provide the opposition.

On November 4, the schoolgirls meet the Hongkong Ladies Club, and from this encounter will have a real opportunity of measuring their strength.

The team will use their own school ground for a number of matches, but as it is also occupied by the C.B.A., the bigger proportion of their games will have to be played on other grounds. Last Friday it was stated in the Telegraph that Miss Knill was at present away from the Colony but would play for the Hongkong Club on her return.

We were misinformed on this point, and have been asked to add that Miss Knill, although retaining membership of the Hongkong Ladies Club, will definitely play for the Central British School in the Caer Clark Cup and other matches this season.

In this innovation Miss Knill will carry with her the sympathetic interest of all local hockey players, and the progress of her proteges will be watched closely.

Omar made a good recovery and at the 18th, head led by 16-7. However on the 19th, and Omar lay three shots sufficient for victory, but Dallah came through to snatch a win.

FLASHES FROM LOCAL SPORTS FIELDS

call for a varying technique of play, so in bowls it is essential to get your seasoned No. 1, 2, 3 and skip.

MAIN'S chief job here was not getting his men to indulge in practice, so much as to find which had the adaptability to positions which were strange to them. It made a tremendous difference to the strength of Shanghai as a team.

CHELSEA WANT THEM!

AFTER reading about the exploits of the South China Athletic Association footballers in Nanking I feel that the greatest gesture of international goodwill which China can now make would be to offer the South China forward line to Chelsea.

THIRTY-EIGHT goals in two matches! That's a goal scored at intervals of 4 minutes 22 3/5 seconds. It seems too that our local team's defence is not in bad shape, for only one goal was conceded. There is the suggestion of the incongruous about this!

BUT the real merit of the South China eleven was tested yesterday when they met and defeated Peking. All Hongkong will now be looking forward to hear of the team's final achievements.

SPEY ROYAL FINAL.

ARRANGED FOR NEXT SATURDAY.

It was announced this morning that the Spey Royal Cup final between Kowloon Dock Recreation Club and Craigengower Cricket Club has been arranged for next Saturday.

The game will be played at the Civil Service Cricket Club ground, starting at 2.45 p.m. sharp, and the referee will be Mr. J. Russell, President of the Hongkong L.B.A.

NOT VERY HELPFUL

THE INTERPORT CRICKET TRIAL

BOWLERS' DAY

To all intents and purposes the Interport Cricket Trial on Saturday on the Hongkong Cricket Club ground has given the selectors little or no assistance.

What appears to be a stumbling block in Interport trials is the undue restraint on the part of the participants. Not a few of the batsmen on Saturday were overawed by the occasion, and scoring was painfully slow, even full tosses being treated with respect. This is clear by the fact that not even two hundred runs were scored for the loss of eighteen wickets during practically four hours of play. Of this the first two hours of play only yielded 87 runs.

The pitch was on the slow side, and gave bowlers little or no assistance. Occasionally a ball rose sharply, but the over-cautious tactics of the batsmen was not at all warranted in the circumstances. The bowlers were not in sizing up the situation, and aided fairly good fielding kept the batsmen tied down to the crease.

BOWLERS ON TOP.

A. W. Hayward calling a successful toss of the coin elected to bat, and opened with E. C. Fincher and A. M. Rodrigues. The bowling was entrusted to G. C. Garthwaite and A. R. Minu. The former kept a good length in his first few overs, and was soon rewarded by the wickets of Rodrigues and 'Tam' Pearce both in one over. Minu, on the other hand, was sending down some really gullible deliveries, and kept turning a loose leg. He was unfortunately in not having Fincher caught early on. E. R. Duckitt dropping a straight hot shot at square leg. Fincher had another life when he asked one to square-leg off Burnett, but Minu failed to get to the ball.

The first hours play only yielded thirty runs, and Fincher, Rodrigues, Pearce, Madar and Hamilton had been sent back. Hayward and Minu then stopped the rot, and by dint of careful scoring took the score to 54, when Hayward was run out. Pereira joined Minu and the rate of scoring was increased, and in half an hour the score was taken to 87 runs when Hayward decided to close the innings.

F. A. Minu, who opened with E. R. Duckitt, was an early victim, being out to a magnificent catch in the slips by E. C. Fincher off A. T. Lee. Captain P. Williams, in accordance with Duckitt, gradually advanced the score, but did not take any undue risks against Pereira, who was bowling a good length. Goodwin relieved Pereira when he had bowled eight overs, and Williams greeted the new bowler by twice despatching him past his legs to the boundary.

AGGRESSIVE WILLIAMS.

Williams continued his aggressive batting, and scored heavily off Madar, whom he drove straight for two boundaries and followed them up with a six in another over. His was the best innings of the afternoon, characterised by powerful hitting all round the wicket.

After he had retired, the remaining batsmen did not offer much opposition to the bowling of Goodwin and L. Hamilton, and the innings terminated shortly after for 100 runs.

By their performance both Minu and Williams are almost certain to be selected for the Interport.

The selection for the first Interport with Malaya will probably be made from the following players:—

A. W. Hayward (Captain), H. Owen-Hughes, E. C. Fincher, E. F. Fincher, G. C. Burnett, L. A. C. Hamilton, Captain P. Williams, L. G. C. Garthwaite, A. R. Minu, A. H. Madar, F. D. Pereira, and G. S. Duckitt (wicket-keeper). T. A. Pearce, who did not take part in this trial, is also almost certain of inclusion.

THAT TERRIBLE 17TH!

INTERPORT LAWN BOWLS WON AND LOST ON SINGLE HEAD

HONGKONG REAP THE BENEFIT OF SUPERIOR TEAM PLAY

(By "Veritas").

In the Shanghai lawn bowls clubhouses in years to come you might hear whispered a tragic story entitled "The Shocking Seventeenth." It might not be the same in every detail as the story you would hear to-day, but it will be encased in the glamour of tradition, and will be to the Shanghai lawn bowlers what Bannockburn is to the Sassenachs and the Treaty of Versailles to the Germans—anathema.

For it was on the 17th head that the lawn bowls Interport of 1933 was won and lost. At the close of the 10th Shanghai were leading 18-14. Five minutes later they were losing 10-18, and the fact that Hongkong added five more shots before the end of practically no consequence.

Everybody, I think, is prepared to sympathise with Shanghai. Up to that fatal head they had not only established a good looking lead, but were deserving of it.

Those who had judged the capabilities of the visitors purely on the previous results of the tour found there were shortcomings in their estimate.

In one of the best exhibitions of lawn bowls seen in Hongkong for a long time, Shanghai regained their prestige to the full.

BOLD TACTICS.

A striking feature of the match was the almost complete absence of "safety-first" tactics. Certainly attention was paid to safeguarding positions won by the No. 1 and 2 players, but on both sides bold tactics were favoured, which as a result gave the spectators a rare treat.

It was not until the 17th and subsequent heads that Hongkong demonstrated how well they could bowl. True there had been glimpses of it earlier on, but generally speaking the honours up to that time had fallen to Shanghai.

In the first place the visitors, thanks to Bailey and Main (especially Main) had staged a thrilling recovery at a point when everything indicated that Hongkong were going away into a long lead. On the 17th the locals had a lead of five shots. On the 14th Shanghai had wiped off this deficit and themselves led 16-13; another two on the 16th and victory was in sight.

It was between the ninth and the sixteenth that Shanghai as a team pulled themselves together. Up to then Main and Bailey had been playing lone hands. But gradually Richards and Malcolm, inspired by the example found their touch and Hongkong were forced to cry beat to a worthy rival.

THE SEVENTEENTH.

Then came the deciding change over the game. It was Hall (consistently brilliant in his straight draw to the jack) who laid the first shot. J. C. Brown increased this to three. It was a closed head and quite impossible for Main to make a straight draw. The Shanghai skip tried to open it up with a drive and succeeded. U. M. Omar, with that sureness of touch, came along with two perfect drawing woods and Hongkong registered the one and only five of the game.

In this match where wits and tactics played almost as important and effective a part as skill, Omar and Main emerged with flying colours. Main had to bear greater responsibilities than Omar because for several heads he did not receive adequate support from Richards and Malcolm. It was often left to him

GARRISON LEAGUE.

Commanding Officers Play In Last Match.

BORDERERS' SUCCESSES.

The last match of the Garrison League was played at Sookunpoo yesterday, when Headquarters Wing, Borderers, beat Headquarters Wing, Lincolns, by 6-2 points.

A rather unusual feature was the appearance in the teams of the two Commanding Officers and to add to the interest, the match in which they opposed each other was the decisive one of the day.

The Borderers found themselves more at home on the grass courts than their opponents but there were some stiff games before the honour of being runners-up in the League was decided.

The League winners are "D" Company, Borderers.

When Lt. Col. Raikes and Lt. Col. of the Borderers—opposed, Lt. Col. Boys and partner, the latter's team were already a point behind and if the Lincolns were to win, that set and the following set against Major Lochner and partner had to be won.

Tactical Error.

The Lincolns pair lost the first set at 6-3 and as the result of the match when then decided, the other set was not played.

Col. Raikes and C/Sergt. Jarman played a fast but steady game and their straight drives carried the day, the return but as often as not the loss were the wrong side of the line, and this together with a few errors proved costly.

The full results were:
Col. Raikes and C/Sergt. Jarman (H. Q. Borderers) beat Col. Boys and Pte. Turner, 6-3; beat Lt. Powell and B. M. Trout, 6-4; beat Lt. Cpl. Ellison and Dmr. Chapman, 6-2.

Sgt. Harnden and Dmr. Jones (H. Q. Borderers) lost to Col. Boys and Pte. Turner, 5-7; lost to Lt. Powell and B. M. Trout, 4-6; beat Lt. Cpl. Ellison and Dmr. Chapman 6-1.

SCHOOL'S BAZAAR

ST. PAUL'S GIRLS COLLEGE HOLDS FUNCTION

A bazaar in aid of the Ministering Children's League was held by the St. Paul's Girls College branch, in the great hall of the College, at Macdonnell Road on Saturday afternoon. The function included a number of features, such as the one and two dollar stalls, where a large variety of useful and reasonable goods were available for visitors at a cost which combined the pleasure of buying with that of charity-giving.

The opening ceremony was performed by Mrs. R. O. Hall, wife of the Bishop, who was warmly welcomed on her first visit to the College.

The proceedings were opened by the Chairman, Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall.

Welcome to Mrs. Hall.

The Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall said:—My Lord Bishop, Mrs. Hall, Dr. Woo, ladies and gentlemen, this pleasing duty I am now performing rightly belongs to his Lordship the Bishop, but Dr. Woo thought that the Bishop may be too shy to stand before you and welcome his own wife and to say some good words about her, although I don't see why he should not. At the same time Dr. Woo was giving me this great pleasure to say these few words which Mrs. Hall so very much deserves.

I should like in the name of the St. Paul's Girls College, to extend to Mrs. Hall a hearty welcome on this her first visit to the College. I should like also to thank her very warmly for the kind interest she has taken in us by coming here to perform the ceremony of opening this bazaar. I feel that from the College Council, not even excluding his Lordship, right down to the youngest pupil of the College, we could count on Mrs. Hall for her sympathetic support in all our endeavours having for their object the welfare of the College (Applause). Probably all of you know the objects of our annual bazaar. The proceeds of this year's bazaar will go to the Ministering Children's League and other charities; but part of that will also go towards replenishment of the funds of the College. Recently we have strengthened our staff in order to raise the standard of the school, and this necessitates additional expenditure.

Facing a Deficit.

Unfortunately our funds are rather low, and we are facing a deficit of $5,000 if not $6,000 next year. The Council has thought that in these hard times instead of writing to our friends for donations and subscriptions, the best means of raising the necessary funds will be to get what can be got out of this bazaar. Knowing your generosity in the past, I am sure you will spend all your own. In so doing you will not be giving away your money. From what I can see around me, I am sure you will get all your money's worth.

I should like to take this opportunity to welcome home the Principal of the College, Dr. Woo, and what is more, to congratulate her on the signal honour which the University of Southern California has recently conferred upon her. (Applause).

I will now ask Mrs. Hall to be good enough to declare this bazaar open. (Applause).

Mrs. Hall formally declared the bazaar open; and was presented by two of the youngest pupils, with a beautiful basket of flowers.

FRANCOIS COTY.

DISMISSED AS DIRECTOR

Paris, Oct. 7. The action taken by the management of the newspaper Le Figaro, in dismissing the newspaper's principal stockholder and head of the well known perfume concern, M. Francois Coty, from his post of director, is causing a sensation in newspaper circles here.

It appears that the action was taken at the insistence of Figaro's editor-in-chief, Count St. Aulaire. In a counterblast published in Friday's issue of the newspaper Ami du Peuple, which is also owned by M. Coty, Count St. Aulaire is charged with having played a questionable role in the Oustrie scandal.

Ordre claims that Figaro's financial status is far from being satisfactory.

The P. and O. s.s. Comorin left Singapore for this port on the 14th instant at 4 p.m. and is due here on the 18th instant at about 3 p.m.

GENEVA CONFERENCE TO ADJOURN

THE FIRST SHOCK OF GERMANY'S ABANDONMENT OF THE LEAGUE AND DISARMAMENT BEING OVER, MINDS ARE NOW CONCENTRATED UPON THE IMPLICATIONS OF THE ACTION AND MEANS OF PREVENTING THE FURTHER DESTRUCTION OF CONFIDENCE.

An adjournment of the Disarmament Conference to-day is practically assured, probably meaning an end to practical efforts towards disarmament for some considerable time to come.

The small Powers, however, seem to be in favour of the conclusion of a Convention without Germany based upon the proposals made in Sir John Simon's speech yesterday. The great Powers see no value in pursuing the matter at the present critical juncture.

IMPORTANT TALKS IN GENEVA

London, Oct. 16. Europe is still in a flutter over Germany's withdrawal from the League and from the Disarmament Conference. Little else was talked about to-day and there was considerable activity in diplomatic circles in nearly every capital.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald returned to London this evening and had a long conversation with Mr. Stanley Baldwin. Later he telephoned to Sir John Simon at Geneva.

There have, however, been no further developments from the British angle.

DALADIER ENDANGERED.

In Paris, the conviction is growing that Germany's action has precipitated the possibility of the fall of the Daladier Government—an event which would render even more remote the likelihood of concessions to Germany.

M. Daladier's enemies are already very strong and they are attacking him vigorously by alleging the failure of the Government's conciliatory foreign policy, and drawing attention to the fact that a further arms cut was agreed upon in the teeth of strong home opposition.

GERMANY CALM.

The people of Germany are facing the situation very calmly and there was no demonstration of any kind yesterday.

The idea that Germany is being treated unfairly as a second-class nation has so long been inculcated in the average German by press and radio propaganda and he is convinced that "strong man" Hitler will reconstitute Germany as a powerful nation. Hence the calm attitude.

The Chancellor has already been inundated with thousands of telegrams promising support to the death.

The subject of re-armament is not being mentioned anywhere.

HITLER WAITING.

It seems likely that the German Government has no intention whatever of violating existing treaties, but is awaiting the effect of its measures on the world generally and on France in particular before deciding upon its further course of action.

As the outcome of a meeting at Geneva of the great Powers, Mr. Arthur Henderson will to-day recommend the adjournment of the General Commission of the Disarmament Conference.

WEEK'S ADJOURNMENT.

It is likely that the adjournment will be for a brief period only, not longer than a week, and will be ostensibly for the purpose of enabling the Governments to review the situation created by Germany's retirement.

It is pointed out, however, that as most of the principal delegates will by then have already left Geneva, most of them having decided to return after to-day's meeting, it is doubtful whether the proceedings will be seriously resumed then.

A COMPROMISE.

Yesterday's meeting's decision to recommend an adjournment is in the nature of a compromise, as it is realised that a recommendation to adjourn since the might provoke strong opposition.

Italy openly advocates an adjournment, and the American are also inclined to favour it, but Dr. Benes, representing the small Powers, strongly opposed.

To-day's meeting also drafted a letter in reply to the charges of Baron von Neurath, which is being submitted to to-morrow's meeting of the Commission. It is understood that the communication firmly rejects the von Neurath charges.

—Reuter.

AMERICAN FEARS.

Washington, Oct. 16. Government officials to-day expressed their agreement with the decision to recommend the recess of the General Commission of the Disarmament Conference, but stand firmly against final adjournment.

The State Department declared that Mr. Norman Davis had authority to support such a recommendation without consulting Washington.

Official circles are of the opinion that Germany cannot be brought back into the Arms Conference, at least not for a long time, and it is felt that the Conference should be saved from a break-down, which might mean the start of a great international armaments race.

—Reuter.

OPENING BREACH.

Berlin, Oct. 14. The German Reichstag has been dissolved by a special order from President von Hindenburg. The new elections which are fixed for November 11, will give German electors an opportunity of expressing their views on the internal and external policy of the nation.

Chancellor Adolf Hitler, in his manifesto to the German people, declared that Germany is most disappointed that despite all readiness to carry out her Disarmament, if necessary to the utmost, other Governments could not decide to fulfil the pledges signed by them in the Peace Treaty.

The German people and the Government are most humiliated by the deliberate refusal of real moral and actual equality for Germany after the Government of the Reich had declared itself, as a result of the equality promised on November 11, 1932, again ready to participate in the negotiation of the Disarmament Conference.

EQUALITY ISSUE.

"Official representatives of other States, in public speeches and in direct statements to foreign Ministers and to German delegates have announced that at present Germany can no longer be granted this equality," said Hitler.

"As the German Government sees in this action an unjustifiable and humiliating discrimination against the German people, it is not in a position to further participate in the negotiations, as a second-class nation without rights."

"While the German Government re-announces its firm desire for peace, it declares with greatest regret that it must leave the Disarmament Conference in view of these humiliating and dishonouring demands, the manifesto continues."

RESIGNATION FROM LEAGUE.

"It will also announce its resignation from the League of Nations."

"The Government submits its decision, with a renewed affirmation of its policy of sincere desire for peace and understanding, to the judgment of the German people, and expects from this a manifestation of a similar desire of peace and understanding and also a manifestation of a similar conception of honour and determination."

"I am convinced that the whole nation, like one man, will support and confirm the decision which springs as much from love of our people and respect for its honour as also from the conviction that final world peace, which is so necessary for all, can only be reached when the conception of victor and vanquished is replaced by a bearable application of equal rights for all who live."—Reuter.

HITLER'S BROADCAST.

Berlin, Oct. 16. In broadcast to the German nation Hitler said that it would be a gigantic event in the history of the whole of humanity if France and Germany could finally banish violence from their common life.

He added that while the German people asserted the rights which the treaties themselves gave to the nation, yet for Germany no reason for territorial conflicts lay beyond those provisions in treaties that already existed.

When the Saar territory was returned by France to the Reich only a madman could imagine that another Franco-German war was possible.

"German youth is not on the march to demonstrate against France, but to identify a political movement which has become necessary to suppress communism," Herr Hitler said.

TRAITORS OF 1918.

"If the rest of the world isolated itself in indestructible fortresses and built monster aeroplanes, guns and tanks, then they could not refer to the German menace, when the Nazis marched entirely without weapons in columns of four."

"The deliberate 'declassing' of the German people lies in the fact that Germany has been denied the right of defence given every other nation."

"The men now ruling Germany have nothing in common with the paid traitors of November, 1918. We were not responsible for the Great War, or what happened during 1914-18, but are only responsible for that which every man of honour must do for people in distress."—Reuter.

GENEVA REACTION.

SIR JOHN SIMON'S DECLARATION

The German decision to withdraw from the Disarmament Conference was communicated in a long statement handed to the President of the Conference, Mr. Arthur Henderson but her decision has not affected plans for the re-assembly of the Conference on Monday. No German representative was present at the meeting of the League Council this afternoon.

In his statement to the Bureau this morning Sir John Simon reported on the results of the conversations between the Powers on the question of disarmament. He indicated that the United Kingdom draft convention would, as a result of these conversations, need to be somewhat recast. Firstly, its duration should be extended to eight years, which should be occupied by the fulfilment of the continuations programme to secure, firstly, a substantial disarmament of heavily armed Powers and secondly, the achievement of the principle of equality in a regime of security.

He added that the modification of the draft convention was necessitated by the present unsettled state of Europe, to which the President of the Conference had referred at the meeting of the Bureau on October 9.

The eight year period would begin with the transformation of continental armies and the setting up of a system of supervision through the Permanent Disarmament Commission. Or this Commission could, as Mr. Henderson had suggested, be set up without waiting for the ratification of the convention. The British Government would welcome it as a shortening period when actual disarmament would be reached.

Regarding the question of how much of eight years would be needed for the initial steps Sir John Simon reported that four years had been mentioned by several Governments though others had proposed a somewhat shorter period.

The measures of the substantial disarmament ultimately to be reached must be defined in the convention itself, and by substantial disarmament he meant either the provision of the United Kingdom draft convention or some comparable variation. He pointed out that the result of the abolition of the various forms of armaments in the second period would be to constitute a common list of permitted arms in which all states without differentiation would share.

Finally Sir John Simon insisted on the principle, which seemed to him essential, that the Powers now restricted by treaties should not increase their armaments forthwith. By that he did not mean to exclude numerical increase proportionate to the numerical increase of the German Army in the course of its transformation from a long to a short service force.

INVITATION TO POWERS.

He invited the treaty-bound Powers to express their willingness to conform to the time table he had indicated. In addition the convention should contain a provision that no Government would henceforth manufacture or acquire any further weapon of any of the types to be eventually abolished.

Sir John Simon expressed the belief that a convention on the above lines would be best calculated to restore rudely shaken confidence, and he proposed that in the general commission other countries should be invited to state their attitude with regard to the essential points he had enumerated.

The British Foreign Secretary's statement was supported by Mr. Norman Davis (United States), Signor Soragna (Italy), and M. Paul Boncour (France), vice-president of the League of Nations. The German representative, Herr Von Papen, confined himself to

CALAMEL-PEREIRA

WEDDING OF ENGINEER OF HONGKONG BREWERY

The wedding was solemnised at the Rosary Church, Kowloon, on Saturday morning, between Miss Bertha Maria Pereira, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Pereira of Hongkong, and Mr. Antoine Yves Calamel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adelin Calamel, of Rodriguez, an engineer employed at the Hongkong Brewery, Rev. Father Rossi officiated at the ceremony.

Entering the Church on the arm of her brother, Mr. T. M. Pereira, the bride was charmingly attired in a white angel's skin creation by Mme. D'Obry, and carried a bouquet of arum lilies. The Misses Beatrice Soares and Agnes Lopes, who attended as bridesmaids, were dressed in shell pink organdie, carrying bouquets of Honolulu creeper, and heather. Mr. R. Silva and Dr. F. M. G. Ozorio discharged the duties of best-men.

Subsequent to the ceremony, a reception was held at 5, Salfes Terrace, where the happy couple received the felicitations of their many friends.

Later, they left for their honeymoon, which is being spent in Macao, the bride's going-away dress being of French brocade silk with white ground and two fancy designs of pink and cream.

DELEGATES LEAVE.

Germans Refuse To Comment On Instructions.

Geneva, Oct. 15. The German delegation to the Disarmament Conference left for Berlin last night.

Members refused to comment on the instructions received from Berlin. Mr. Arthur Henderson's reply to Dr. Nolde was most brief, and simply acknowledged receipt of the telegram, which will be submitted to the Bureau of the Disarmament Conference.—Reuter.

REICHSTAG FIRE

SENSATIONAL ARREST OF FOREIGN LAWYERS

Berlin, Oct. 14. Four foreign lawyers, Mr. Leo Gallagher, of the United States, M. Willard, of France, and M. M. Detschoff and Gregoroff, of Bulgaria, who are attending the Reichstag Fire Trial here, were today summoned to leave the Court by detectives, during a brief interval in the proceedings.

They were taken to an adjoining room and deprived of their entrance cards and later were conducted to the police station for examination.

This action is stated to be the sequel to a letter they had written to Dimitroff's counsel, who was appointed by the Court urging him to protest exclusion of Dimitroff, who is charged with high treason from the Court.

The latter sought to justify Dimitroff's attitude towards German justice.

The President of the Court, Dr. Buenger, characterised the letter as a monstrous slander.—Reuter.

Three of Four Banned.

Berlin, Oct. 16. Three of the foreign lawyers, Messrs. Willard, Detschoff and Gregoroff, after a police examination, have been expelled from Germany.

Leo Gallagher, the American lawyer, has been exempted from the expulsion order, in view of the fact that Torgler's counsel specifically invited him to attend the trial.—Reuter.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Sylvia Sidney and George Raft appear together for the first time on the screen in the Vito DeLuna story, "Pick Up". The picture opened yesterday at the Queen's Theatre exhibiting itself as a tender and human romance of young love, shot through with thrills and tragedy.

The story of "Pick Up", a B. F. Schulberg production, is the story of a girl, released from prison to shift for herself. Still behind the bars in her husband, whom she detests, on a murder charge. Once out, the girl finds herself facing starvation. She allows a taxi-driver to pick her up, achieves a fondness for him which ripens into love, and has to refuse to marry him because of her previous marriage.

Through her encouragement the taxi driver goes into the garage business, waxing prosperous. Becoming society-minded, he starts chasing a wealthy girl, only to discover when almost too late, that his "pick-up" girl is the one who really matters.

In a series of dramatic scenes the picture moves swiftly to its conclusion, bringing in the girl's husband, who has escaped from prison to reclaim his wife. The story builds to an exciting climax, in which the love of the girl and her man is threatened. It is a dramatic tale of power to which Sylvia Sidney and George Raft contribute what are probably their finest performances.

"Hallelujah, I'm a Tramp"

Supported by a cast including three internationally famous comedians who recently returned to the screen after extended stage engagements, Al Johnson is at the King's Theatre today, in "Hallelujah, I'm a Tramp", upon the screen for the first time in more than two years.

Johnson, first in the talkies, introduced a new screen technique which is confidently expected to revolutionize the normal methods of the motion picture studios, the star presents his new story in what is variously called "musical dialogue" and "photographic music."

His picture is something like 50 per cent musical, but the music and lyrics are an integral part of the story instead of being songs, as such. There is only about ten per cent of spoken dialogue. The story of "Hallelujah, I'm a Tramp", written especially for Johnson by Ben Hecht, is brought to the screen with Madge Evans in the principal feminine role and with Frank Morgan, Harry Langdon and Chester Conklin in the principal masculine parts.

With the exception of Miss Evans and Morgan, the entire cast plays strange characters, who glory in such names as Bumper, Egghead, Captain Hell, Squer, Acorn, Ma Sunday and Apple Mary.

The story is laid in modern-day New York, against the background of Central Park, Wall Street, the tenement districts and haunts of the rich. Johnson, minus blackface and playing a character totally unlike any he has ever brought to the screen or stage, will sing throughout the picture.

The songs and musical dialogue are from the pens of Lorenz Hart and Richard Rodgers, well-known Broadway and Hollywood. The pair stumbled upon the germ of their new musical ideas while working on a Chevalier picture, and now they have fully developed the technique in the Johnson film.

"Hallelujah, I'm a Tramp" is a Lewis Milestone production.

"Moonlight and Pretzels"

Leo Carrillo is more than just one of the outstanding actors of the American stage and screen. He is an arts foundation. He can paint, he can draw, he can sculpt, he can write, he can sing, he can play, he is a linguist, and he is an accredited historian.

Carrillo who has a strong character in Universal's backstage musical romance, "Moonlight and Pretzels", which opens on Thursday at the King's Theatre, is now writing a book dealing with the early days of California from an historical standpoint. He is a poet of ability, and recently produced a volume of verse under the title, "Western Broadsides".

He is a polo player whose prowess is recognized all over the United States. He is an accomplished linguist, and is the only American actor who is an adept conversationalist in Chinese and Japanese.

Because his ancestors were Italian and Spanish, even in his amateur days he specialised in dialect characterizations of these two nationalities, and subsequent stage appearances often found him playing such parts. There were Lombardi, Lodi, Mister Antonio, The Padre, The Bad Man,

MOTOR MISHAP.

CRASHES INTO LAMP
STANDARD

A European and a Chinese are now lying seriously injured at Kowloon Hospital as the result of a motor accident which occurred in Leichikok Road, Shamshui-po, shortly after 5 p.m. yesterday.

According to the report given to the Police, motor car No. 64, driven by a Chinese chauffeur with Mr. R. Moore, a mechanical engineer of No. 264, Fook Wing Street, Mr. Chung Sul-hon, of No. 33, Calne Road, and Mr. Wai Po-cheung, of No. 69, Bonham Road, as passengers, was returning to Kowloon from Castle Peak Road at about 5 p.m. In Leichikok Road near Shamshui-po, the driver tried to overtake another car which was on the road, but hit a lamp standard. All the glass in the car was shattered.

Serious injuries were received by Mr. Moore and Mr. Chung, and they were admitted to Kowloon Hospital in a grave condition. Mr. Wai Po-cheung escaped with only slight injuries. The chauffeur was unscathed.

Mr. Wai Po-cheung is well-known locally as a former journalist, who is now with Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, the firm of solicitors.

Inquiries made at Kowloon Hospital last night revealed that both Mr. Moore and Mr. Chung were still in a serious condition.

MANCHUKUO PLOT.

ATTEMPTS TO OVERTHROW
PRESENT REGIME

Harbin, Oct. 15.
A plot aimed at the overthrow of the Manchukuo regime is alleged to have been unearthed following the arrest of a Manchukuo official of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

The identity of the official is undisclosed. His office was previously raided and incriminating documents are reported to have been found, involving others whose arrest the authorities are now seeking.—Router.

and other such plays—but the role which gave him the greatest pleasure was that of "Maggie". Carrillo decries his Italian dialect and assumes that of a Greek; the role being that of a big-time gambler. Also among the galaxy of stage, screen and radio artists, are Roger Pryor, youthful Broadway stage star who makes his picture debut in the Universal musical, Alexander Gray, Bernice Claire, Jack Denny and his orchestra, Debra Carson, The Four Eton Boys, Herbert Rawlinson, the famous Frank and Milt Britton.

"Disgraced"

Helen Twelveteens, Bruce Cabot, Adrienne Ames, William Harrigan and Ken Mayray play the leading roles in "Disgraced", Paramount's poignant story of a woman who found out she was too modern, which comes on Thursday to the Queen's Theatre.

Miss Twelveteens plays the role of an attractive model. Cabot, climbing another step or the ladder to stardom plays the other leading role, that of a wealthy young man-about-town.

Dark-eyed Miss Ames is cast as a sophisticated socialite, Cabot's fiancée. Harrigan plays the role of Miss Twelveteens' father, a police captain. Murray is the latter's friend.

The story centres about Miss Twelveteens, who arouses Cabot's interest the moment he sees her. He pays ardent court to her, and she is soon convinced that their love is reciprocal. When he tells her that he is about to break off his engagement to Miss Ames, she yields to him completely. All this of course, is kept from Harrigan, the father.

But shortly thereafter Miss Twelveteens is called upon to model a wedding gown for Miss Ames, and learns that she and Cabot are to be married within a few days. Stunned at first, she is coldly furious after the shock wears off. Pocketing a pistol, she goes to Cabot.

He succeeds in locking her into a closet before she can use the gun, and calls for the police. Harrigan, the girl's police-captain father, is sent to the scene. What happens when he finds his daughter has been betrayed, and that her betrayer is here at hand, results in a daring denouement.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

In the bidding of a hand at contract we are always looking for the safety of the hand. There are also safety plays in the play of the hand. A good example of playing a hand safe is given in the following hand which came up in a recent tournament at Fort Wayne, Indiana.

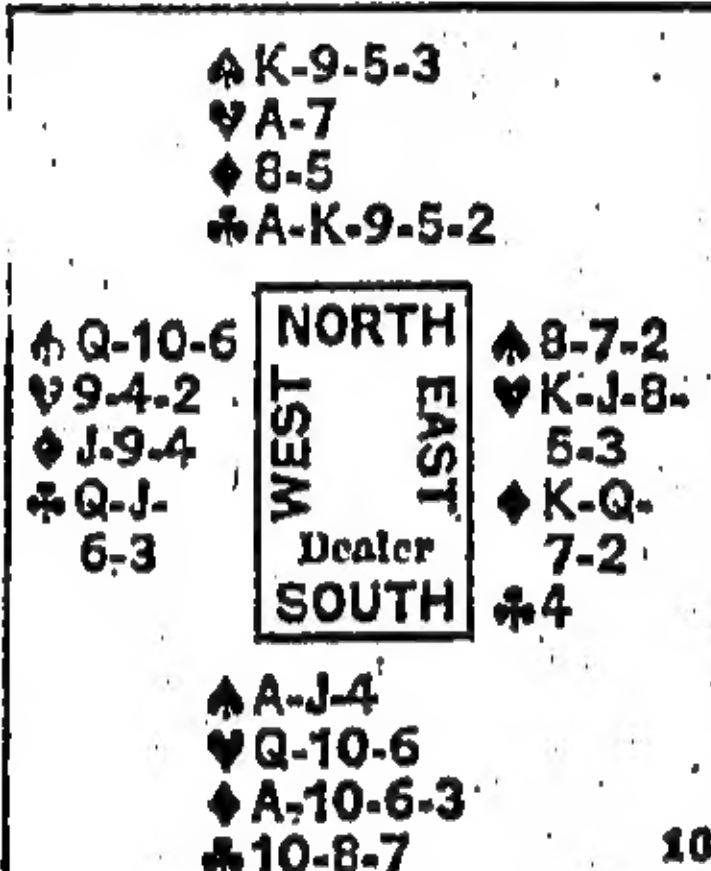

The Bidding.
South and West passed and North opened with one club. East overcalled with one heart. South bid one no trump, West passed and North bid two no trump. South went to three no trump.

The Play
The opening lead was the nine of hearts, which East won with the king. He returned the five of hearts and the trick was won in dummy with the ace.

Some players might make the mistake now of trying to break the clubs by leading the ace and king, hoping they would split three-two—and then complain of hard luck if this play did not work. However, there is a safer way to play the hand.

You should assume that the two missing honours will be divided. Playing on this assumption, let us try to establish the club suit safely before control of the heart suit is knocked out.

The proper play is, the ace of clubs from dummy, and then a small club. On this club East will show out, playing the seven of diamonds. The declarer then plays his ten and West wins the trick with the jack. The declarer has a perfect tenace in dummy with the king-nine over West's queen-six of clubs.

East returns the deuce of hearts, which the declarer wins with the queen and then takes the club finesse. He runs the king and five of clubs, the ace of diamonds and the ace and king of spades, for three no trump, while if he had tried to break the club suit by playing the ace and king, his contract would have been defeated.

FERRY HITS JUNK.

H.M.S. SUFFOLK AIDS IN

EMERGENCY

Passengers going across the harbour from Hongkong on the Meridian Star at 7.25 p.m. yesterday, well alarmed when the ferry-launch struck a junk, No. 685, which was carrying a cargo of wood. The junk was just clearing the ferry-launch when the collision occurred.

Fortunately no-one was hurt aboard the junk, nor thrown overboard by the force of the impact. H.M.S. Suffolk, which was lying in midstream, threw a searchlight upon the scene, and sent a pinnace to see what help could be rendered. The Meridian Star towed the junk over to Kowloon badly damaged.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST—HONGKONG

"Doctrine of Atonement" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday.

The Golden Text was: "All things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation" (II Cor. 5:18).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Then draw near unto him all the publicans, and sinners for to hear him. And the Pharisees and scribes murmured, saying, This man receiveth sinners, and eateth with them. And he spake this parable unto them, saying, What man of you, having an hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it? And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing. I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance" (Luke 15:3-7).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Every pang of repentance and suffering, every effort for reform, every good thought and deed, will help us to understand Jesus' atonement for sin and aid its efficacy; but if the sinner continues to pray and repent, sin and be sorry, he has little part in the atonement—in the at-one-ment with God, for he lacks the practical repentance, which reforms the heart" (p.10).

FRENCH PLANS IN GERMAN HANDS

MAN ARRESTED

Geneva, Oct. 10. With the French frontier in the throes of a spy scare following the report that Germany had obtained the detailed plans of French secret fortifications, delegates to the League of Nations were nervous to-day lest recent incidents in the Saar basin should produce a crisis.

Despatches reported that the French had already arrested a foreman engaged on the secret fortifications on a charge of delivering the plans and specifications to German agents. This was followed by a Paris message saying that an engineer named Weber had been detained at Metz on suspicion that he was the go-between in the dealings between the foreman, Emile Schopp, and German agents.

MACHINE-GUNS. Two civilians were later arrested at Saarbrücken, charged with conveying a motor lorry loaded with the latest type French machine-guns. Schopp was said to have confessed that he stole the machine-guns from the French supply stores.

The foreman Schopp, according to reports here, was considered to be entirely loyal to France and had been entrusted with all secrets pertaining to the construction of the fortifications. He had been employed on one piece of construction for eight months. Other arrests are expected hourly. It was reported here, and it was feared that the French threat, made recently, that Germany would be arraigned before the League on charges of open violation of Versailles treaty would be put into effect.

NEST OF ESPIONAGE. As the despatches were received to-day, the League already had before it a report from the League's governing commission in the Saar valley covering disturbing incidents that have taken place there throughout the summer and the early autumn.

Most of the delegates had hoped that a resolution, instructing the League Council to "watch Saar development closely in order to safeguard European peace, would be sufficient. Now that a new irritant has been applied to the general political situation, delegates were not certain what would take place.

The report from the Saar with the statement of a French official that the Saar basin had become a nest of espionage and intrigue, came while a League committee had in its possession the report of the governing commission charging German Nazis in the area with religious persecution, intimidation of Saar officials and abusive attacks on the governing body.

The governing commission was appointed by the League for a period of fifteen years, its functions to cease in 1935, following a plebiscite to determine whether the people of the basin desire to be under French or German rule.

As the time for the plebiscite draws nearer, the French and Germans are both increasing their efforts to swing the opinion of the 790,000 inhabitants that are under the nominal government of the League in their own favour.

EUROPEANS CAPTURE THIEF

SMART WORK PRAISED BY MAGISTRATE

Charged before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, with the larceny of a leather hand bag containing a wrist watch, valued at $35, and 25 cents in money from Mak Kin-yee, a spinster, at Morrison Gap Road last night, Chan Sang, an unemployed, was sentenced to six months' hard labour, and ordered to be sent back to the country on the completion of his sentence.

Inspector McLellan said that complainant was walking in Morrison Gap Road about 8.15 last night when defendant came up from behind and snatched her bag. Complainant raised the alarm, and two Chinese gave chase. Two Europeans also joined in, and the defendant was eventually caught by Mr. McKay who was one of them, near the Civil Service Cricket Club. The defendant broke away again but was caught by the other European.

Mr. Schofield remarked that he would like to compliment Mr. McKay and the others who captured the defendant, whether they were present in Court or not.

Inspector McLellan added that Mr. McKay was connected with the Police Reserve, and a special report of his action would be forwarded to the Inspector General of Police.

In reply to Mr. Schofield, the defendant said he had arrived in the Colony two days ago from Welchow to find work.
